UNREADY NAVY
WAS SURPRISE
TO ADM. LEAHYFLEET UNMANNED
WHILE JAP WAR
BREWED

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Admiral J. O. Richardson's 1940 protests to President Roosevelt that the fleet was "unmanned" and "unready" came as a surprise to Admiral William D. Leahy, the latter testified today.

Leahy told the Senate-House committee investigating Pearl Harbor that he was "distressed" because he had been saying the fleet was ready and because he considered war with Japan a "likely contingency."

From Leahy the committee heard his recollections of the luncheon conference the two admirals had with the president and of the conversations to which Richardson attributed his later removal as commander of the fleet.

Richardson Detached

Though he had no recollection of some other remarks which Richardson said were made, Leahy agreed that his fellow admiral told the president that American ships did not have their full complement of men, lacked facilities at Pearl Harbor, and lacked oil for extensive operations. Richardson had said he had urged that the fleet be removed from Hawaiian waters to the west coast but the president disagreed.

That was on October 8, 1940. The following February 1, Richardson was detached as commander in chief of the fleet and replaced by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel who was in command when the Japanese attacked.

Richardson testified that when he arrived in Washington in March he told the late Secretary of the Navy Knox that he had "never known of a flag officer being detached from command of the U. S. fleet in the same manner that I was, and I feel that I owe it to myself to inquire why I was detached."

He quoted Knox as replying that the president would "send for me and talk the matter over with me."

"Did the president ever send for you?" asked Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.).

"He did not."

Hurt His Feelings

When Ferguson pressed as to whether he ever received any indication of why he was detached, Richardson related that on one occasion Knox told him:

"The last time you were here you hurt the president's feelings."

Asked if the reference was to the October 8 luncheon, Richardson said, "I think so."

Leahy, who served for a time as ambassador to the Petain regime in France, said that while he was in Vichy, he was kept informed by the French of Japan's movement of troops into Indo-China. He became "convinced we would be at war with Japan over the Philippines in the near future."

He so notified Washington, he added.

Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif.) asked whether he anticipated an attack on Hawaii.

"I did not," Leahy replied.

Admiral Richardson, during his testimony, said President Roosevelt did not strengthen the fleet as fast as he could have in 1940 although there was concern that war with Japan might come that fall.

He testified, too, that a lack of full crews for the ships of the fleet led some officers to think that war was improbable.

Crime Wave Sweeps
New York, 64 Slain;
Police Patrols Out

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Police, faced with a crime wave that has produced 64 violent deaths in 72 days, organized "strong-arm squads" today after Boxer Al (Bummy) Davis was killed by four gunmen when he tried to halt a robbery and after 16-year-old Susan Scarga's bruised and bullet-marked body was found on a lot.

Both crimes took place in Brooklyn. Davis, former contender for the world's lightweight and welterweight boxing crowns, was shot by the gunmen when he slugged one of them on the jaw with his fist. Police said the Scarga girl apparently died fighting off attempts to rape her. Her knees were bruised and police said a bullet had been fired through her head.

Police said they had broadcast an eight-state alarm for apprehension of a 16-year-old youth who lived a block from the little red warehouse shack near which the girl's body was found and who had been reported missing from home.

Davis, whose real name was Albert Davidoff, was in the tavern of his friend, Arthur Polansky, when the four robbers entered at 2:45 a. m.

FRENCH CABINET
CRISIS SETTLEDCoalition Government
Formed By DeGaulle;
3 Parties Unified

BY ROBERT C. WILSON

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—President De Gaulle, ending a nine-day cabinet crisis, today announced formation of a coalition government in which all France's armed forces are unified under his single command.

De Gaulle created a new cabinet post for Communists—the ministry of armaments. De Gaulle himself, however, as president and as chief of the armies, "assumed direction of the national defense."

The announcement said De Gaulle "will be assisted" in direction of national defense by Communist Charles Tillon, former air minister, now appointed minister of armaments, and by Armand Michelet of the popular Republican movement (MRP) as minister of the armies.

The old posts of ministers of air, navy, and army are abolished. De Gaulle, who threatened to resign because of demands by the dominant Communists party for either the war, interior or foreign affairs ministries, explained that the role he envisions for France—that of intermediary between the United States and Soviet Russia—prevented him from acceding to the party's demands.

The new "coalition" setup was achieved by giving the three major parties—the Communists, Socialists and MRP—equal shares of the 21 portfolios. Little doubt was seen that the constituent assembly would give the government a vote of confidence on Friday.

TENSION GROWS
ON IRAN FRONTPresence Of Russians
Complicates Deal
With Revolters

BY LEOPOLD HERMAN

Tehran, Nov. 21 (AP)—An Iranian military spokesman tonight declared that "approximately 6,000 Russian troops have been moved toward Karaj," 25 miles northwest of Tehran, and asserted "tension is growing" in troubled northwest Iran.

Karaj is on the highway between this capital and Kazvin, 80 miles to the northwest, where Russian troops yesterday halted Iranian reinforcements sent to put down disorders in Azerbaijan, the mountainous, Russian-occupied Iranian province bordering the Soviet Union. The commander of the four Iranian battalions halted, but ignored Soviet order to return to Tehran.

The military spokesman did not amplify his statement that 6,000 Russian troops had moved toward Karaj. Iranian diplomatic and military representatives were reported seeking to break the impasse with the Russians through conferences.

Iranian Premier Hakimi declared at a special session of parliament that his government requests competent and friendly authorities and nations, Allies and signatories to the Tripartite treaty, which still have resident forces in Tehran, not to intervene in matters of internal affairs of our country.

The Tripartite agreement, signed in 1942 by Iran, Britain, and Russia, gave assurances that Russian and British troops would be withdrawn from Iran after the war.

Gov. Kelly To Talk On Youth Guidance At Washington, D.C.

Lansing, Nov. 21 (AP)—Governor Kelly will address the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Washington, D. C., Nov. 30, discussing the Michigan campaign to control juvenile delinquency.

Kelly said Judge Anna M. Kross of New York, invited him to speak, asserting the invitation was "in recognition of Michigan's outstanding youth guidance program." He said the federation was interested not only in a report of the program developed during the past two years but in the "next phase of the program which commences with home and family work."

Kelly will leave tomorrow for Florida for a brief vacation with Mrs. Kelly and two children. He is scheduled to speak before the annual meeting of the Florida chamber of commerce Dec. 3.

DEER HUNTERS

SECOND WEEKDEATH TOLL NOW 18;
STRIKE-IDLE GO TO WOODS

(By The Associated Press)

A reinforced army of deer hunters was expected to hold forth in Michigan's woods on Thanksgiving Day to usher in the second week of a record season.

The General Motors Corp. strike, which has idled thousands throughout the state, seemed certain to augment the northward surge.

There were reports that some of the employees who left plants this morning were already dressed for hunting.

The sportsmen took a "breather" on the holiday eve with only a few names added to the casualty list.

One hunter was dead and three were injured, bringing the death toll to 18.

However, conservation department officials reported two men lost since Nov. 19 in the Gladwin game refuge, and two others missing since Nov. 20.

Crystal Falls Man Killed

Latest to die was James Stenfor, 21, of Crystal Falls, shot through the chest by an unidentified hunter in Iron county.

The list of injured included: Ace Sabash, of Pontiac, shot through the arm by another hunter in Oscoda county; Edward Ludwig, Alpena, shot in the elbow by his son, Alois, in Alpena county; and Mrs. Franklin Walker, 30, of Detroit, who suffered a flesh wound in the temple from a ricocheted bullet in Schoolcraft county.

The conservation department said the men missing in the Gladwin refuge are Clarence Sylvester, of Inkster, and Richard

ALLIES TO HELP
JAPS GET HOMESecret Pledge Revealed
By Byrnes; Marines To Have Long Job

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Hereafter secret assurances to Japan that the Allies would return its surrendered soldiers to Japan were revealed today by Secretary of State Byrnes in explaining continued presence of U. S. marines in China.

Byrnes told a news conference that these assurances go beyond the Potsdam ultimatum which said merely that the enemy soldiers would be "permitted" to return home. He said it is the duty of the Allied forces to accomplish the surrender of the Japanese units wherever they are and see that they get home. The speed is dependent in some degree on transportation, Byrnes said.

There are now about 300,000 Japanese civilians and soldiers of equal number in North China, Byrnes said. He called it our duty to bring about their surrender and their return home.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 21 (AP)—At least two persons were killed and about 35 injured tonight when a northbound Northwestern Railroad train, No. 209, struck an automobile and piled up about two miles from the city.

Hospital officials said that 35 persons had been admitted and police said the two of the occupants of the automobile were killed.

The injured were taken to homes near the accident scene and priests and ministers went from door to door attending them.

A group of cadet nurses who were passengers on the train were uninjured and helped to give first aid.

TRANSIT TIEUP
JOLTS CAPITALGovernment Takes Over
In Street Car And Bus Walkout

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The government took over strike-paralyzed street car and bus lines in the capital today and President Truman denounced the walkout as a blow "at the very roots of orderly government."

The president asserted that the walkout by some 3,000 AFL unionists violated a no-strike clause in the contract between the union and the Capital Transit company.

The Office of Defense Transportation was directed to take over the transit system and operate it, with any assistance from the army that might be necessary. Under the Smith-Connally Act, anyone promoting a strike in a government-operated facility is liable to fine or imprisonment.

The strike, the second here this month, started at 3 a. m. today. It affected more than 300,000 government workers and 200,000 other persons who use the street cars and buses daily.

A similar strike Nov. 5 ended the following day when a "truce" was agreed upon for continuance of negotiations. The truce was to have run until midnight tonight.

Last midnight, however, the workers at a mass meeting booted down a proposal of labor department conciliators for arbitration, and the walkout followed.

The workers are demanding a pay increase of 30 cents an hour which would bring their base pay to $1.25 an hour. The company offered $1.02 an hour with a stipulation for a 48-hour week.

Nationalists Drive
Deep In Manchuria;
Port May Be Freed

BY SPENCER MOOSA

Chungking, Nov. 21 (AP)—A Nationalist army, striking 60 miles into Manchuria without a fight, threatened today to overrun the Communist-held port of Hulatao and seize a solid foothold in the territory.

A triumphant sweep across southern Manchuria was reported by the army newspaper Ho Ping Pao as Communists charged the Nationalists had massed 12,000 troops and heavy guns in Hankow pass—historic invasion gateway for the Mongol hordes in past centuries—for a simultaneous drive into inner Mongolia.

Advices reaching here said the Communists might be forced to yield the port, seized after the Russians withdrew, to avoid being trapped against the sea by the Nationalist columns.

STRIKE ORDER
CLOSES DOWN
75 GM PLANTSCLOSE TO 200,000
WORKERS LEAVE THEIR JOBS

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Federal government sought a solution to the bitter wage dispute which led to a strike of nearly 200,000 General Motors Corporation employees today.

The action came as Walter Reuther, vice president of the United Auto Workers (CIO), told a press conference that 96 per cent of GM's far flung industrial empire was shut down tight as a result of the walkout at 11 a. m. (EST) today.

"The other four per cent is under consideration," Reuther added, but he did not amplify the remark.

Meeting Called Friday

General Motors spokesmen reported 175,000 production employees were out on strike but would not hazard a guess as to how many of the 73,500 salaried workers were idle because of picket lines or other causes connected with the strike.

Reuther confirmed reports that John Gibson, special assistant to Secretary of Labor Schwelmbach, had requested a meeting with union officials here Friday to review the strike situation.

Earlier reports from Washington indicated Gibson, a former president of the Michigan CIO council, had been empowered to arrange separate meetings with the union and company to seek resumption of negotiations on wage differences.

Company officials said they had not been approached regarding the meeting.

The Washington story said Gibson was to return here Friday to give Secretary Schwelmbach a first-hand report on the strike which hit General Motors plants in 20 states today. Some sources indicated company and UAW representatives would be summoned to Washington to confer with high government officials.

Willing to Negotiate

Reuther told his press conference that "nearly 325,000 General Motors workers would be affected by this strike." The UAW official said 160,000 had been listed as eligible to cast ballots in the strike vote which the National Labor Relations Board recently took at GM.

"That was at the start of the reconversion period and GM has added many thousands since then," he asserted.

Asked if the union, which called the strike to support its demands for 30 per cent wage rate increases, could support a strike "until November, 1946," Reuther replied:

"We will travel the road to the bitter end. We're right and when you're right you can afford to go the whole way. General Motors

Increased Cutting In War Production Helps Timber Land

Lansing, Nov. 21 (AP)—G. S. McIntire, assistant chief of the forestry division of the state conservation department, today reported that increased cuttings of Michigan timber for war production have not robbed Michigan forests, but have actually helped wood stands.

Timber sales on state-owned lands have indicated to the department that high markets have permitted the cutting of over-mature and other defective trees which were no longer producing but were holding back growth of other trees, he declared.

His wife, the former Gertrude Darling, whom he married in 1914, and two sons, Nathaniel Goddard and Robert, Jr., survive.

Pay Raise Granted By Eureka Company

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Eureka Vacuum Cleaner Co. has agreed to a 10-cent an hour wage increase for 1,500 members of the Mechanics Educational Society, an independent union, Matthew Smith, society secretary, announced today.

Further increases will await emergence of a National wage pattern, he said. The union asked for a 25 per cent increase when negotiations began a month ago.

STRIKE ORDER CLOSES DOWN 75 GM PLANTS

can not break the union." Reuther said that if GM "offers to negotiate, we will be willing."

Both Reuther and company officials listed the Meridian, Conn. ball bearing unit as the only one of 75 GM plants, covered by UAW contracts, which was not closed by today's walkout.

Union officials said the Connecticut unit was represented by an AFL union until a month ago and that there had not been sufficient time for them to take part in a strike-vote held in GM plants. The strike was endorsed by a large majority.

There were no reports of violence in any of the walkouts, involving workers in 20 states.

Worst Since 1937

The strike, bringing to grips the world's largest labor union and one of the nation's largest corporations, was the most far-reaching since the sit-down strikes of 1937 in which union recognition was the issue.

There was a difference of opinion between management and the union concerning the number of workers immediately affected by the walkouts. General Motors asserted it had 162,000 production workers presently employed. Union spokesmen have estimated more than 200,000 workers would be immediately affected by the mass walkouts.

To this industry spokesmen have added that if the strike continued for a week all but one automobile manufacturer (presumably Ford) would be compelled to close down and that nearly three quarters of a million workers in the motorcar and Allied industries would be affected.

This was explained by the statement that most of the companies obtain some car parts, such as spark plugs and ignition harness, from General Motors.

Union Has Millions

R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, asserted the union had a $4,000,000 strike fund and other union officials intimated additional funds would be forthcoming from the National CIO if needed.

The UAW-CIO struck the scores of GM plants with unexpected suddenness, after weeks of negotiations. The strike order went out after General Motors informed the UAW-CIO yesterday that it would reply "on or before Friday" to a union proposal for arbitration of the dispute. The union had demanded a reply by 4 p. m. Tuesday.

The union proposal had included a stipulation that any wage increase resulting from arbitration should be made within the corporation's present price structure.

Because Walter P. Reuther, UAW-CIO vice-president, leader of the negotiations with General Motors, has insisted the union wanted no wage increase that involved higher product prices, that point had come to be regarded as almost as much of an issue as the wage increase demand.

The corporation, with equal insistence, has maintained that product prices were not properly a subject for discussion in the wage negotiations.

According to union estimates the average General Motors production worker has been earning from $1.12 to $1.15 an hour; the 30 per cent rate increase, the union asserts, would raise the figure from $1.12 up to $1.46 an hour. General Motors figures place the average wage at $1.18 an hour, which would be boosted to $1.53 by the increase.

No Disorder Wanted

State and local police made plans in advance for dealing with any violence, but authorities indicated there would be no intervention unless serious trouble developed. UAW President R. J. Thomas said orders had gone out to the strikers throughout the country to avoid disorder and to maintain peace.

In Michigan Gov. Harry F. Kelly informed State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander the right of the strikers to picket must be respected, as long as they do so peacefully.

Picket lines appeared at many of the plants immediately after the strike began. Generally they were orderly with strikers laughing and joking. Not a few of the strikers had come to work clad in hunting caps and coats prepared to

Youth Held Here For Truck Theft

Dallas Lary, 17, of Mercer, Pa., a sailor off a Great Lakes ore carrier, is held in jail in Escanaba for return to Sault Ste. Marie where he will be arraigned on a charge of driving away a truck without permission of the owner, the Edison Sault Electric company.

Sheriff's officers in Escanaba were advised that Lary had stolen the truck Monday afternoon from where it was parked in Sault Ste. Marie. He told officers here that he had missed his boat at Sault Ste. Marie and took the truck to drive to Detroit to board the boat. He said that he was headed toward Milwaukee and Chicago when he was arrested in Escanaba. Lary said that he must have lost his way.

Deputy Sheriff Emil Johnson arrested Lary in Escanaba at 8:45 p. m. Monday after a wild chase from Gladstone. Richard McClintock and Richard Moberg of Nahma Junction reported to state police at Gladstone that Lary had purchased gasoline and then drove away without paying for it. They followed the truck to Gladstone, and there Deputy Sheriff Johnson took up the chase.

Overtaking Lary after a fast ride, Deputy Johnson arrested the youth on Seventh Avenue North when he turned off Stephenson avenue in an effort to avoid capture.

Center Lake Fires Burn 13 Cottages; 15 Families Lose

Michigan Center, Mich., Nov. 21 (AP)—A fire of undetermined origin destroyed 13 year-around cottages on Duryea's Point on Center Lake, near here, tonight, leaving 15 families homeless.

The fire, which caused damage estimated at $60,000, was fanned by a high wind and raged for three hours before firemen brought it under control.

Eighty-five nearby cottages were endangered by the blaze, but none was damaged. All contents of the 13 homes destroyed, were lost in the fire.

leave immediately for Michigan's deer areas.

Among the first of the plants to be affected by the strike was the AC Spark Plug factory at Flint. Thousands of workers poured from the plant about 15 minutes ahead of the 11 o'clock zero hour. A picket line quickly formed with signs reading: "Join, now, support the picket line"; "30 per cent or fight"; and "No more buck passing—this is it."

Student Writers Learn From Trial And Error

Iowa City, Ia., (AP)—Pound out enough bad plays and you'll likely write a good one now and then, assuming you have a vivid imagination, of course.

That's the belief of Prof. E. C. Mabie, head of the university of Iowa dramatics arts department.

Three shows currently on Broadway, written by his former students, back the Professor's system.

Two of the plays, "Glass Menagerie" and "You Touched Me" were authored by Tennessee Williams. Howard Richardson and William Berner, both former Iowa students, turned out "Dark of the Moon." Other Iowa students have made notable successes in Hollywood.

He Keeps Them Busy

Prof. Mabie thinks nothing of requiring students to do as many as 18 plays in a nine-month school year, hoping three or four will be worthy foundations for future polished manuscripts. He recalls that Richard Maibaum once wrote 14 plays under this "Mass Production" system, three of which hit Broadway.

"We don't let our students sit around tapping their pencils and waiting for an inspiration to strike them," Mabie says.

"Pencil Tappers" are given a newspaper, told to find a theme for a play and are required to write, direct and produce the play in nine days.

"After all, most playwrights don't know how to write for the stage," Prof. Mabie said. "They can't sit at a typewriter and write a perfect play. Actually, the play is formulated right on the stage, while the actors are giving their first few performances."

Howard Richardson had to be "taken by the collar and forced to work," the professor related. "I gave him the Barbara Allen legend and told him to get busy and quit fooling around. 'Dark of the Moon' resulted."

Plays Reached Broadway

Willingness to work, long and hard, is one of a Playwright's chief assets, Prof. Mabie claims. An alert imagination is another requirement, but imagination can be stimulated considerably by work.

Williams, remembered here as "Tom," underwent the nine-day newspaper treatment. Subsequently, one of the plays he wrote here reached Broadway.

Mabie recalls Williams as a student "who didn't have much money, was very sensitive, and made you always want to do something for him." He was skillful particularly in creating women characters and tender scenes.

Many plays are sent to the Iowa theater for criticism. Prof. Mabie reads each one and then discusses it with members of his staff and with advanced students. Sometimes the plays are staged experimentally, and the authors may come to make alterations during rehearsals.

Li. Robert Anderson, a Harvard graduate who Prof. Mabie believes shows promise, has pages of notes and suggestions on one of his plays waiting for his return from overseas. The Iowa theater presented his "Coming Marching Home" even though it needed alterations. Now he will have the necessary data for making improvements.

Mabie's proteges also have been successful on the screen. Maibaum has written the scripts for several successful movies. E. P. Conkle wrote "Prologue to Glory," and Dan Toherah did "Moor Born." Both were staged here first.

Family Of 5 Makes Sweden To U.S.A. In 47-Foot Sail Boat

Miami Beach, Fla., Nov. 21 (AP)—Capt. Kou Walter, his wife and three children, and his crew of one dropped anchor in Biscayne bay today after sailing 7,000 miles from Sweden in a yawl one-third the tonnage of Columbus' smallest ship.

One of the voyagers was Baby Helme, who spent five of her nine months on the journey. The latter-day Vikings had nothing much on Columbus, except a can opener. Walter, with the aid of Mihkel Kovamees, 54, an old friend and retired sea captain, handled the 47-foot, 15-ton sailboat in the Atlantic crossing.

His wife, Clarissa, 32, took charge of the galley with its miniature cookstove—and the three children: Baby Helme, Aloha, 10, and Maia, 9.

"The children were no trouble," said Walter, only member of the group who speaks English. "The younger they are the better they can take it."

It was at Stockholm that family and "forever" stowed foodstuffs, mostly canned, aboard the yawl, which has no auxiliary power and provides less space than a modern trailer.

Passage from European ports was booked a year in advance, and the Walters couldn't wait that long—so they set out last June on their own for the long trip via England and the Madeira Islands.

Communist Guards Kill U. S. Officer, Put Yanks In Prison

Peiping, Nov. 21 (AP)—An American army officer was killed and three other Americans and a group of Chinese taken prisoner by Chinese Communist guards while on a special mission in North China shortly after the end of the war, it was learned today.

The officer was Capt. John M. Burch, who before the war was a Baptist missionary at Hangchow. For 28 months he had operated behind the Japanese lines for the Office of Strategic Services.

With him were Capt. Curtis A. Grimes, Sgt. Albert Meyers and an officer identified only as Lieutenant Ogilvie (home addresses not available). They were held captive in Yenian, Communist capital in Shensi province, for three weeks after a 400-mile march.

Word of their capture was reported by Office of Strategic Services headquarters to Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, American commander in China, who took up the incident with Communist representatives in Chungking and effected their release.

Births in Germany during the first half of 1944 were reported to have shown an increase of 8 per cent over the first half of 1943.

Deserved Promotions

The nomination of Gen. Eisenhower as army chief of staff and Admiral Nimitz as chief of naval operations, the top positions in the nation's army and navy organizations, will be welcomed enthusiastically throughout the United States.

The promotion of the two men who led the world's toughest army and the world's most powerful navy to glorious victory in the European and Pacific wars brings the strongest possible leadership to the country's highest military positions.

General Marshall and Admiral King, who held the top positions in the army and navy, respectively, through the war years, have earned their retirement with the thanks of a grateful nation for a grand job well done.

The European war was primarily an army show and Gen. Eisenhower, commanding not only the American army but the armies of our allies as well, did a masterful job in leadership that resulted in the unconditional surrender of Germany. Never before in history has a man been called upon to assume the great responsibility that fell to Gen. Eisenhower in the past five years. He more than fulfilled the confidence placed in him by the people of the United States, Great Britain and their allies.

The Pacific war was more of a naval problem and Admiral Nimitz was given the overall command of the Allied forces in the Pacific. The tremendous successes of the American navy, coupled with General MacArthur's land forces, in that theater of war are too well known to require further enumeration.

The United States, and the millions of people of other nations who look to this country for world leadership, have just cause to rejoice in the selection of Gen. Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz as army chief of staff and chief of naval operations, respectively, of America's armed services.

Thanksgiving Day

THIS is the first Thanksgiving day since the ending of World War II, the most destructive and horrible human conflict in the history of mankind. We have much to be thankful for, even though the monumental problems that have faced America and the rest of the world are still far from solved.

Thanksgiving is, by tradition, a holiday of family feasting and family reunion. As such it is the happiest of any we have known for the last four years. Soldiers and sailors by the hundreds of thousands have come home since the last Thanksgiving, men who were fighting then in Germany and the Philippines and the danger-infested skies and oceans, and wondering when and if there would be another Thanksgiving at home.

Today the reunion is a reality for them. And so in countless homes a deep, personal gratitude is added to the day's good food and good spirits. There are new, intangible trimmings for the turkey that will make this a memorable as well as a happy holiday.

Thanksgiving is also a day traditionally marked by a national counting of blessings. This year we count victory and the total is nearly complete, nor any less impressive because it is so quickly computed.

Beyond victory this day does not offer too many reasons for rejoicing. There is scant joy in many parts of the world. And here at home the peace and plenty so painfully won, the well-being so earnestly desired, are surrounded by hostile forces. There is unrest and anger and confusion, and above them all hovers the invisible threat of the new and deadly atomic force which the world must live with.

So the rejoicing is solemn at best. But perhaps that is in the true spirit of Thanksgiving. The Pilgrims who first celebrated this day 324 years ago had little material cause for celebration. They, too, were surrounded by hostile forces. But the worst was behind them. They had freedom, and they had survived.

Their descendants, and the millions who have come to join those descendants in the land so bitterly won, have also managed to preserve freedom and survive. Today our problems are greater, but we are stronger in number to cope with them. The difference is in magnitude and not kind.

The essential qualities which have brought this country thus far are the same ones which brought the Plymouth colonists through their first winter. They are the qualities which are still needed today and which, we may hope, offer our best chance of continued survival and progress.

A New Press Service

The Escanaba Daily Press now awaits approval of its application for a FCC license to establish a FM radio station as an adjunct to its newspaper service in Escanaba and the surrounding area.

Because FM is a new development in the radio field, it will require some months to get the new station under way even after the license is granted. Manufacturers of radio transmitting equipment are just retooling from war production and there are other wrinkles concerning FM or frequency modulation radio operation that must be ironed out.

The Escanaba Daily Press feels there is room for a FM station, and is embarking upon this venture as a means of giving additional service to its public and providing employment to some of its former employees now returning from military duty.

Contemplated entry into the radio field is in line with the long-established policy of the Escanaba Daily Press to serve its community in the best way possible.

Price Control Needed

BEST evidence of the continued need for price control was the sudden rise in the price of oranges to as high as one dollar a dozen in Detroit this week. The zooming of prices on citrus fruits came immediately after the removal of ceilings for a period extending from Nov. 19 to Jan. 13.

The ending of the war does not mean that wartime price problems also have disappeared. In fact, the danger of runaway prices is much greater now than ever, the situation being similar to the inflation crisis that gripped Germany after the first World War.

Costs of living are steadily mounting. Housewives complain that a five dollar bill will get only a small basketful of groceries, nowadays. Prices of other household articles, appearing under new brand names, are sometimes double or treble the pre-war figures.

The H. C. L. problem is getting worse. Selfish producers may clamor for removal of ceilings, but the hard-pressed consumers will be demanding more control if the current price trends continue.

Other Editorial Comments

THREAT TO FM.

(Grand Rapids Press)

Among the new developments in the electronic field is the FM-frequency modulation-radio set. The comparatively few persons who now own such equipment praise its clear, static-less reception. Quite a few others who are in the market for a new radio are looking forward to buying FM sets now that the radio industry is retooling from war to civilian production.

With the permission of the federal communications commission, the radio stations have been broadcasting programs on FM as well as regular channels. This gave James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, an opportunity he would be the last to overlook. He served notice on the key stations of three major networks that any musical program which goes out through FM as well as standard outlets will have to employ twice as many musicians. The broadcasters capitulated and announced that no more network programs will be piped to FM. Thus an advancement in radio is threatened, together with the right of the public to benefit from it through improved radio reception.

In this connection it is pertinent to note that a bill Michigan's Senator Vandenberg introduced to restrain interference with non-commercial music broadcasts has not yet been enacted into law. The bill was inspired by Petrillo's success in getting concerts of the National Music camp at Interlochen barred from the air on the pretext that broadcasts by high school music students constituted unfair competition with professional musicians. It passed the senate last February but a similar text introduced in the house by Congressman Dondero has not emerged from hearings of the interstate and foreign commerce committee. The committee chairman, Congressman Lea, has proposed that a substitute measure with broader coverage be introduced soon. Congressman Dondero is especially interested in the legislation because of a personal experience at Royal Oak, where the ceremony dedicating a service men's honor roll was devoid of music because the musicians' union thwarted efforts to obtain the services of a band from the nearby naval training station at Dearborn.

Michigan congressmen are of the opinion the house will "welcome the opportunity" to pass the bill. Perhaps if it does so Petrillo will have less encouragement to continue "edicts" of the type which now confronts FM.

ARMY'S FLU VACCINE

(From the Detroit Free Press)

War is not without its blessings, and one of them may be the control of influenza by means of a new vaccine which the army has developed.

No claims are made that the vaccine will completely eliminate all forms of the disease. It is admitted that there may be some of these about which nothing is known. But at least two types are familiar to medical science, and the vaccine is said to be effective against both of them.

Some 7,000,000 soldiers are to be inoculated with the new serum which eventually will be available for public use. This should provide an adequate test.

Even if the new vaccine is only partially successful, it will be a boon to mankind in helping to check one of the most devastating of diseases.

HERE'S HOW THEY TALK

(Speech Portrait No. 5)

Edward R. Murrow
("This Is London")

Voice, deep and expressive, and with a fine timbre that suggests good training as a singer (this, however, is merely a surmise).

Style, deeply serious, perhaps a shade too much so, though not so serious as to approach pomposity. It is also worthy of note that Murrow's speech has not been Briticized (perhaps "Oxfordized" is the better word) by his long stay in London and the consequent association with the broadcasters of the B. B. C.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Charles Dickens in his "Christmas Carol" had Scrooge, that apostle of gloom and ill-will, converted by a minor miracle on Christmas Day.

But Scrooge, it is said to report, has had a relapse. The state of the world and all the talk of destruction and disaster seem to have put the old boy back in to a vicious frame of mind.

This columnist, as we say when we have solemn affairs to report, has had an exclusive Thanksgiving interview with Scrooge. It was not off the record, either.

It was very much on the record. He wanted it known that he now foresees all the direct consequences of human greed, jealousy, hatred and malice coming true.

—SCROOGE IS DISGUSTED—
The old fellow put on a truly impressive performance. He made professional gloomsters such as H. G. Wells and Dean Inge seem like happy-go-lucky school children. But to do Scrooge justice, it is best to put down questions and answers. Here it is.

"We're going to celebrate Thanksgiving over here in a few days, Mr. Scrooge, and I wondered if you had some comment to make?"

"Thanksgiving?" His sardonic laughter might have been heard in Hiroshima. "Thanksgiving! You're not trying to be humorous are you? What is there to be thankful for? Muddleheaded human beings have finally found a way to destroy themselves altogether. With the weapons they now have, they've managed to blow up half the earth. Now, with this atomic stuff, they can do a thorough job.

"And I, for one, shall not be in the least sorry. You can quote that."

"But, Mr. Scrooge, the Allies have won the war, even though it was pretty close for a while. Don't you think it would have been a lot worse if Germany and Japan had won instead?"

"Well, possibly." He made this concession grudgingly. "But you know they have a dictatorship in Russia, don't you. They're trying to extend that dictatorship. They want to control eastern Europe. There's no democracy in Bulgaria."

—SAVED FOR NEXT WAR—
"Don't you think there's reason to be thankful that the war is ended? After all, if it were still going on, the plans called for an invasion of southern Japan on November 1 and the Tokyo plain in February. Thousands of new casualties would be added to the list each day."

"Perhaps a few lives were saved. But you have to ask what they're saved for. They've been saved undoubtedly to be killed in another and more terrible war." "You think then, Mr. Scrooge, that the new United Nations Organization can't prevent future wars after it gets going and gets the strength of experience in cooperation and in good will?"

Before he answered, he gave this columnist a look of absolutely withering scorn.

"You're such a simpleton, I'm surprised they let you out. You know, or if you have an ounce of sense you should know, that the so-called United Nations Organization is nothing but a hoax. A hoax, I told you! It was throttled by those schemers at San Francisco. I was there. I watched it happen. It was stillborn. Now, take that business of the veto power . . . Oh well, no use talking to you if you can even ask such a question."

"But don't you see anything at all hopeful in the world, Mr. Scrooge? I thought that after . . ."

"You mean, after my conversion. That was bunk, pure bunk, nonsense. No, I'm happy to say . . . Take that back, I'm not happy; I'm never happy. The answer to your question is nothing. Just that—nothing."

It seemed to me that that slip about being happy was a bigger slip than Scrooge would ever admit. There are others like him, and their names are often in print, who seem to revel in gloom.

The last thing Scrooge said was that he was getting ready for Christmas, meaning to fill it with as much ill-will as possible. Not a thousand Tiny Tims, he boasted, not a million starving children would shake him today. And the old gentleman stalked off looking rather pleased with himself.

In retaining the American flavor of his speech he has shown a high degree of discrimination, for surely nothing is more irksome to American listeners than the person (the woman especially) who, after a brief sojourn in England, comes home with a Haw Hacc accent and overwhelms us with, "I have been aghast at the vahst disahster at the aircraft plahnt," or who has picked up such other pretty knick-knacks as, "milli-tree, secree-tree, dictionary, ord'n-ree, circumst'nces, potty (party), lodge (large), infonmed sauces (informed sources)."

Enunciation. Better than average. He is especially careful in the framing of his vowels and in the sounding of final "d's" and "t's." He is a precisionist without being too precise. Young broadcasters could study his speech pattern with profit.

Pronunciation, good but not infallible. During the broadcast checked for this article, he repeatedly mispronounced sacrifice as "SAK-ri-fiss" (sorry, Edward, you won't find it in anybody's dictionary). But, peculiarly, he pronounced the third syllable correctly, to rhyme with "vices," when he used the word in the plural. The word immediate was mispronounced "ee-mediate." The first "i" should be short, as in "him." The third syllable of negotiator was rhymed with "bore, tore." Should be "ter" to rhyme with "her, per."

Score: Voice, 25; style, 23; enunciation, 25; pronunciation (penalty of two points for each word mispronounced on a single broadcast), 19. Total: 92. Rating, excellent.

Next week, Drew Pearson.

Thanksgiving After Victory

Good Morning!

By The Bugler

TO BE THANKFUL — Many men have said there is little that we can be thankful for on this Thanksgiving Day.

They point to the bitter controversies between labor and management, the precarious state of our relationship with Russia and the threat of involvement in the Chinese civil war, the spectre of inflation that would weaken our national economy, and the dismal prospect of a world threatened by atomic destruction.

There is also the very personal grief caused by the recollection of vacant seats at our Thanksgiving table.

While there may be cause for alarm and sadness, let us not forget that the unsatisfactory present and the fear of the future are not new. Men of every generation have viewed with alarm and foreboding. They have counted their disappointments instead of their blessings and found little to be thankful for.

FOR THE LIVING — It isn't preaching but simple common sense to enumerate our blessings occasionally. That is what Thanksgiving Day is for. The one complete and perfect blessing for which we must be grateful is the blessing of life itself. To be alive, to be conscious of living, to know and communicate with those around us—this is perfection of our greatest blessing.

All too often we lose the ability to recognize life as a blessing, yet when life is in prospect of being taken from us, it becomes a beautiful and shining experience which we cling to with all possible determination.

THE LITTLE THINGS — The daily experience of living is measured in the little things, the simple and homely incidents and events that make life a period of personal happiness.

Life cannot forever be a series of spectacular adventures, keyed to the cataclysm of war and the atomic bomb.

Of greater importance to the individual is an act of kindness received from a friend, the smile of love from those we love, and the genial companionship of persons we respect for their sincerity and intelligence.

Living can be measured in the gratefulness with which we receive the physical things of life found so abundantly in our land. Many people in their love of life encompass the earth upon which they live—the fertile fields, the forests, the lakes and rivers.

They feel humble before the variety and the scope of all life as it is evident to them, and thankful they are a part of the whole of existence.

THERE IS OBLIGATION — Life carries with it responsibility as well as privilege, and this we should know as citizens of a democracy. Happiness is incomplete unless it is shared with others. The solitary man, without friends or family, can never be happy no matter what his wealth.

One of our blessings, then, is the sharing of our happiness with others.

The people of America have shared with the world the products of our farms and our factories, and now we propose to share the secret of atomic force. These are physical things that, in the future, will bring respect for

10 Years Ago—1935

All WPA projects were at a standstill yesterday as more than 800 men went on strike with demands for a 10 per cent increase in the monthly security wage and an 88-hour instead of a 140-hour work month. A grievance committee of WPA workers conferred with S. N. Harrod, Delta county WPA administrator, and Joseph Pryal, WPA labor relations official, yesterday afternoon.

Rodney Hogan, 501 First Avenue south, employee of the U. S. Forestry Service, received painful cuts and bruises when the truck he was driving lost a wheel and went into the ditch near Nahma.

Bob Nicholson, 428 South 11th street, and Roy Flug, 1817 Lexington street, each shot a buck while hunting in the vicinity of Ralph yesterday.

"Kenny" Carlson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gayhart Carlson, yesterday was elected captain of the 1936 Escanaba high school football team by his team mates.

20 Years Ago—1925
Manistique—The marriage of Leo Gonyea and Miss Doris Klagstad, both of Manistique, was solemnized Saturday morning at St. Francis de Sales parsonage.

Columbus, Ohio—Harold "Red" Grange, the flaming ghost of the gridiron, dropped behind the intercollegiate football horizon today, leading his "fighting Illini" to a 14 to 9 victory over Ohio State before 85,500 spectators, the greatest throng, with one exception, ever to witness a football game in America.

Mrs. A. J. Powers has returned from a visit with her brother at Stephenson.

Testimony in the case of Charles Milkovich, Stephenson avenue, charged with violation of the prohibition law, was so conflicting yesterday that Judge C. D. McEwen continued the case for further examination.

our intentions toward friendship.

One thing more we might do. Individually and personally we might think in terms of friendship, seeking to reach understanding. All of us share in the blessing of life, regardless of race, or creed, or color. The world has become a neighborhood, and the neighborhood will become a room. In that room will dwell the world family where hatred, distrust and suspicion will be intolerable.

AND PRIVILEGE—Let us be thankful then for the times as they are, however much we may feel disappointed in certain aspects of life, individually and nationally. There is before us the promise of a broader life such as we have only dared wish for in the past. Our progress can be limited only by our unwillingness to obtain from life the full measure of opportunity for living.

THANKSGIVING DAY — It started with a group of Pilgrims at Plymouth and has become a national holiday. It makes a pretty scene as presented nowadays—turkeys, pumpkin pie and holiday food on the table. There is another side to the picture, for the Pilgrims "first fell upon their knees and then upon the aborigines."

Life is a period of change. The passing centuries since the first Thanksgiving Day prove that. What will be the picture 300 years from this Thanksgiving Day?

Of one thing we are certain: Life will continue, and with it will come many changes, yet always there will be, for the individual, the personal dependence upon friendship for personal happiness.

Inevitably there must come the same attitude in our relationship with the world as with those who are our immediate friends and acquaintances.

—Clint Dunathan.

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE

Q. My husband has been in the Army for over three months and I receive Family Allowance for myself and three children. My husband is expecting to be sent overseas and probably won't be back for quite a long time. I've been told that Family Allowance payments will be discontinued next March, is this true?

A. There has been no discontinuance date set on payment of Family Allowance. The Service-men's Dependents Allowance Act provides for payments of this benefit for the duration and six months. This does not mean six months after V-J day, but such date as may be declared by Congress as the termination of war. Your payments will not be discontinued in March, unless your husband enters a non-pay status or is discharged from the service.

Q. Can rubber be reclaimed more than once?

A. Yes; but it cannot be reclaimed indefinitely, because it loses its "bounce" eventually and the quality is reduced considerably with each reclamation.

Q. What college has a song entitled "Roar, Lion, Roar?"

A. Columbia University, New York City.

Q. How do birds secrete oil on their feathers?

A. It is transferred to the feathers from an oil gland situated on the back at the base of the tail. The oil is applied by the bill during the process of preening. Water birds, such as ducks, have more oil on their feathers than land birds because it helps to make the plumage waterproof and protects the skin from direct contact with cold water.

Q. Is there any way to keep rhinestones from turning green?

A. True rhinestones will not turn green unless they are in contact with copper or brass, in which case the discoloration is a film or coating, which can be removed with a weak solution of muriatic acid. Care should be exercised in using the solution, as it is apt to cause any metal around the stone to loosen. The acid does not harm the stone.

Q. What makes silver tarnish?

A. Small amounts of sulphur gases in the air, usually derived from the sulphur contained as an impurity in coal and other fuels. Silver has a great affinity for sulphur and takes up the gases out of the air and forms a black compound called sulphide of silver.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Ex-Ambassador Joe Davies, one of the best envoys ever sent to Russia, is writing a book which will make some furor around the state department.

Davies is shocked at the Truman - Byrnes policy toward Russia, says that inside the state department a vicious anti-Russian group is out to stir up trouble — perhaps eventual war — with the Soviet.

Davies wants Truman and Stalin to sit down across from each other and put all their cards on the table face up. He feels the U. S. A. and the U. S. S. R., each with tremendous wealth and tremendous territory, are the last nations in the world to be natural enemies—though they can be if certain cliques in both countries keep stirring things up. Davies views the situation as a hard-headed business man—feeling that America needs Russia and Russia needs America. He feels that Truman is exposed to all sorts of anti-Russian pressure, especially from certain army-navy bigshots and Russian-baiting diplomats. This explains the President's confused drift.

Davies is really alarmed about the danger of the situation, and, unless someone gets to him, his book will sound off in no uncertain terms. He has been hesitating lest if he tells the truth he may offend Truman, but it now looks as if he is going ahead.

NOTE—Truman recently offered Joe Davies the ambassadorship to London, but Joe declined.

—WAR CONTRACTS PROBE—

Congressman Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky has been exhibiting unusual interest in a case before the Mead committee. He has been urging senators not to proceed with their investigation of the Erie Basin Company and its lush war contracts.

Senator Mead's investigators have been probing reports that this almost unknown company received $36,000,000 in war orders, though operating on a shoe-string. At first the company refused to show its books. Finally, Mead investigators went to Chicago to examine the books, probably will bring them back to Washington.

Congressman May has urged members of the committee to lay off. The other day his friend, Senator Alben Barkley, joined him in the request. It remains to be seen whether congressional courtesy or public interest will win out.

—MERRY-GO-ROUND—

Washington is getting right back to its old pre-war cat-and-dog-fight social protocol days. When Chip Robert gave a dinner last week, there were indignant whispers about his error in seating the honored guests. He puts Mrs. Maybank, wife of the Senator from South Carolina, on his right, and Representative Clare Luce of Connecticut on his left. Protocol, according to the dowagers, should have reversed this seating, since Mrs. Luce is a member of congress in her own right, while Mrs. Maybank is only the wife of a senator . . . Friends are booming able "Chet" Bohlen to be the new U. S. Ambassador to Moscow. Bohlen speaks Russian perfectly, acted as interpreter for Roosevelt and Truman with Stalin. However, the Russians are suspicious. Among other things he is a cousin of the Krupp Von Bohlen, famous German munitions family . . . Summer Welles may be out of the state department, but his home is the quiet rendezvous of visiting international bigwigs. The President of Chile motored out to lunch with Welles during his official visit. Last week, state department counselor Ben Cohen, Australian foreign minister Evatt, plus the Mexican Ambassador and Secretary of Commerce Wallace gathered at Welles's home to concoct political medicine with Senators McMahon of Connecticut, Fulbright of Arkansas, Ball of Minnesota and LaFollette of Wisconsin.

—PHILIPPINE BLACK MARKET—

Army investigation has shown that about 22 per cent of all goods being shipped to the Philippines now finds its way into the black market.

In September and October alone, military and native police were able to recapture about $1,000,000 worth of U.S.-owned goods which black marketeers had stolen. The black market absorbs everything from trucks to fountain pens, from pistols to radios, Cigarettes, milk, clothing and typewriters all sell at premium. Theft insurance in Manila now costs more than anywhere in the world.

The Daily Pacifican, the G. I. Western Pacific newspaper, tells of one typical case taken from police files which shows G. I.'s and civilians working together in a black market ring. The Pacifican has done as much as anyone to expose black marketeering.

—HABERDASHER TRUMAN—

Eddie Cantor, ribbing President Truman before the National Press Club dinner the other day, let loose this one:

"Of late, our President has been visiting the supreme court with increasing frequency. People wonder why. Must be big government problems, they figure. Well, I found out the truth—the real reason behind President Truman's visits to the supreme court justices: the President's Haberdashery store in Kansas City just got in a new line of block robes and he's trying to drum up a little business."

A Chicago doctor offered one year's medical service for the return of his lost Angora cat. That's a pretty big ante for one kitty

Paper Industry Makes Scientific Use Of Forests

The American Paper and Pulp association made a preliminary report of a survey of the industry's forest resources which shows that the paper industry, to an unexpected extent, is applying scientific management to an enormous acreage of forest land, and that the holdings of major and minor companies will assure a perpetual supply of at least one-third of the nation's requirements.

"This report," said E. W. Tinker, executive secretary of the association, "shows that fears as to the future wood supply in certain sections of the United States are unjustified. The acreage under scientific forestry management, to produce an annual crop of pulpwood, is sufficient alone to supply one-third of the nation's requirements. To this available perpetual supply, there must be added the even greater amount of wood which the paper mills buy from farmers and owners of private woodlands in the vicinity of their mills, thus affording such

MANY ENGINES TO BE NEEDED

15,000 Military Planes And 3,500 Commercial Seen In Peacetime

New York—Peacetime production of gas turbine aircraft engines—jet and propeller drive—will rapidly become dominant in the high powered and high speed airplane fields, both military and commercial, George H. Woodard of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation told newsmen here today.

Military air fleets totaling about 15,000 planes will be required for the maintenance of national security, while civil transport planes may number 3,500 within the next five years. Power will be derived for these planes not only from the usual reciprocating engines but from gas turbine engines as well, Mr. Woodard declared.

At a demonstration where two of the torpedo-shaped, axial-flow jet propulsion gas turbine engines were shown for the first time, it was learned that an American "buzzless" buzz bomb had been designed to use a nine-and-a-half-inch diameter turbo-jet power-plant. The "Yankee," a small, high powered engine, was installed in the Navy's fastest plane, but later engines, still military secrets, are considered substantially better for weight and power.

Although jet engines were the main concern during the war the gas turbine with propeller drive will be of even greater importance for peacetime needs. High powered and high speed planes will use the turbine type engines while the reciprocating engine will remain dominant in small and medium-sized planes.

Jet engines will be used exclusively when speed is important above all other considerations. Propeller-drive gas turbines will be used in planes operating up to 550 miles an hour when high power combined with efficient operation is required.

Mr. Woodard predicted that gas turbine engines of 5,000 to 8,000 horsepower will be practicable within the next few years. Jet propulsion will be important but the useful power from a gas turbine's combustion gas will mainly be used to drive a propeller.

Bishop Pinten's Will Provides For Scholarships

Under the terms of the will of the late Bishop Joseph Gabriel Pinten, dated July 4, 1942, and filed in Marquette county probate court, one-fourth of the residue of the estate, after certain bequests are carried out, will be used to pay on the indebtedness of the cathedral in Superior, Wis., and three-fourths will be used to "establish scholarships in the Collegio Propaganda with the petition that the diocese of Superior and the diocese of Grand Rapids be privileged to enjoy one scholarship each for a number of years."

How much money will be available for these purposes is not known because the estate has not been inventoried and its value, beyond real estate listed at $7,500, has not been determined.

Bishop Pinten served as bishop of the diocese of Superior for four years after his consecration and then was transferred to the diocese of Grand Rapids, where he served 14 years, until his retirement, in 1940, as titular bishop of Sela. The Very Rev. Robert Bogg, chancellor of the diocese of Grand Rapids, and the Very Rev. James Flannery, pastor of Holy Name parish, Grand Rapids, are named in the will as executors of the estate.

Menominee Range Mines Stock Ore

Iron River—With the end of the shipping season in sight, the Buck and James mines of the Pickands, Mather & Company have started stockpiling ore for the winter.

Pocket and stockpile shipments are still going forward from the other mines of the district and will continue while good weather prevails. Small stockpiles still remain at several of the mines.

The Great Lakes shipping season came to an official close on November 15 but boats are still docking at Escanaba. Iron ore trains are expected to run out of the Iron River district for another week or so or until cold weather sets in. Railroads and boatmen are of no mind to using thawing plants.

FUR HARVEST IS UNDER WAY

County's Mink Industry Expands; Quality Is Excellent

Delta county mink ranchers are harvesting a large crop of furs this season, a survey of the rapidly growing fur industry in this area revealed. An estimated $250,000 worth of mink pelts will be produced in Delta county alone, the survey indicated.

The Jack Whitney farm at Ford River, one of the outstanding mink farms in the country, will produce in excess of 4,000 skins, including a number of the highly prized Whitney Whites. A crew of approximately 20 persons is now engaged in the pelting operations.

Other mink ranchers in the county who have recently completed their pelting operations or are now engaged in that harvest include Les Smith, Frank Wawirka, Joe Whitney, Clarence Mattson, Gust Soderberg and Einar Hanson. Most of the mink farms are planning an expansion of the industry for the next season and are retaining a larger percentage of mink for breeding stock than in past years.

Most of the Delta county mink are Yukon Blue mink and the quality of this year's pelts is regarded as excellent. The skins are expected to sell for $25 to $30 each for top quality. Since about 75 pelts are required for Milady's fur coat, it is easy to see why the cost of mink coats are well in four figures.

Les Smith's harvest of approximately 700 pelts include a small number of silver blue platinum furs, one of the outstanding varieties that command premium prizes.

Killed By Injection

The mink are pelted only when their furs are in prime condition. The skin of each animal is carefully inspected before the animal is killed. Mink that are not prime are returned to the pens for several days and are closely watched so that they may be pelted when the skins are in best possible condition. The furs remain prime for only a few days and the pelts must be harvested during that period. The mink are killed by a hypodermic injection of ether into the heart and die almost instantly. The skins then are removed from the carcasses and are scraped to remove all fats. Finally the skins are stretched and dried naturally without the use of excessive heat. Carcasses are sold to soap companies.

A number of fur buyers have been making the rounds of the local ranches, but most ranchers have indicated that they have not yet sold their pelts.

Pelting 40,000 Foxes
The Hiawatha Fur Farm at

Hermansville, one of the largest fox farms in the country, started the pelting of 40,000 silver foxes Monday of this week, with a crew of 125 persons employed. The fox are being pelted at the rate of 1500 per day. The pelting operations at Hermansville are expected to continue until a few days before Christmas. The 40,000 pelts are estimated to be worth approximately $1,500,000.

The harvest at Hermansville is about 10% heavier than a year ago but the market price of fox furs is somewhat weak, due to a scarcity of cloth needed for finishing the fur coats.

The Hiawatha Fur Farm operates 4,000 acres at Hermansville and brings in thousands of foxes from Thiensville and Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in late summer for priming and harvesting.

JEAN WORTH APPOINTED

Menominee — Mayor Otto R. Eickmeyer last night appointed Jean Worth, editor of the Herald-Leader, to the Menominee Park Board to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of F. J. Trudell. Worth's appointment, unanimously confirmed on motion of Ald. Charles Kralovec and supported by Ald. Chris. Wuellner, will be for the unexpired term ending in 1947. Mr. Trudell had served on the board since its creation in 1907, soon after the late John Henes donated Henes Park to the city. The board has jurisdiction over all of the city's parks.

Bell Telephone Co. Will Raise Pay Of Returning Veterans

Detroit — The Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced that, in recognition of experience in the armed forces, it will grant increased starting pay rates to returning veterans entering the company's service for the first time.

George M. Welch, president of the company, said the extent of the increase will depend upon the experience of veterans while in the armed forces. He emphasized, however, that the practice will not eliminate the element of judgment in the individual hiring of new employees.

"The new practice simply grants recognition to the fact that the veteran has undergone a measure of development useful in the telephone business while in the armed forces," Welch said. "For such purposes, veterans are placed into two general classifications: 1. Those with no communications experience but in whom military service has developed maturity and certain other abilities. 2. Those with communications experience related to telephone occupations, or have had specialized training courses while in the service."

For those without communications experience, the starting pay rates will be advanced up to a maximum of eight months on the wage-progression schedule, depending on the length of their military service. Starting pay of those with a year or more of communications experience will be advanced an additional four months on the schedule. Thus, if a veteran were in the armed forces 32 months, including a year of telephone training, a maximum credit of one year could be allowed.

Sales of bow and arrow licenses to resident deer hunters showed a 158.9 per cent increase as of October 31 over the same date last year.

What Michigan Bell's Post-war Program means for ESCANABA

• Michigan Bell already has started an expansion and improvement program that will cost $120,000,000 in the next five years. Naturally, Escanaba residents want to know how Escanaba will benefit from such a huge undertaking. Briefly, here are some of our plans:

• When telephone instruments and trained manpower are available and the necessary new plant has been constructed, we shall be able to install telephones for the 240 families now waiting for service and for others who may apply meanwhile.

• First attention will be given to increasing the capacity of the central office equipment which, for nearly two years, has not been able to handle any more telephones. A sizable addition, scheduled for completion next August, will provide enough switching equipment to serve all of those now waiting for telephones.

• Another addition to the central office equipment will be made later on, in anticipation of a 5-year increase of nearly 600 telephones in Escanaba.

• We also plan to add about 2,400 miles of wire in cable to Escanaba's telephone system. This project is due to be completed in the summer of 1947. It will allow for normal growth in all sections of the exchange area.

• These, and other projects planned, will represent expenditures in Escanaba of nearly $75,000.

AMBITIOUS as this program appears, it is absolutely essential, if we are to make service available to all who want and need it. Nor is there any other way we can keep pace with normal progress and provide consistently improved service in the future.

The money needed to finance the $120,000,000 program must come from thrifty people willing to invest their savings in Bell System securities.

This means that earnings, now and in the future, must be sufficient to attract investment dollars. But if prospects for future Telephone Company earnings are unattractive compared with those of other companies, investors will place their savings elsewhere.

Too long a continuation of a rate of earnings substantially below that of other industries would weaken our ability to meet expected telephone needs. So the future quality of your service depends on telephone rates sufficient to produce earnings attractive to investors.

Michigan Bell customers want good service. The telephone bill is so small an item in their regular expenditures that customers want really good service even though it might cost a trifle more than they would need to pay for inferior service.

HUGE DEMAND FOR NEW CARS

Labor Strife Continues To Hamper Motor Production

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(AP) Automotive Editor
Detroit, (AP)—Orders for 1946 model automobiles are pouring in upon the car industry's merchandising division, according to the sales managers, but deliveries in volume still appear to be many weeks away.

Work stoppages and parts shortages continue to impede the production program. Current indications are that the difficulties will continue to interfere with assembly operations during most of the remainder of the year.

The car makers already have abandoned any hope of turning out half a million passenger vehicles in 1945. Whether they will be able to attain top level production by next spring, as many have predicted is highly uncertain at this time.

Somewhat startling in connection with the production program was a statement this week by C. E. Wilson, General Motors president, that the corporation's several car divisions thus far had made only 17,000 cars. The various units had scheduled that volume for September alone.

Ford has assembled only 14,772 of the 1946 models, despite a July 2 start on production. Chrysler's Plymouth division has begun to roll but the number of cars so far assembled has not been great. Plymouth plans to have all its retailers supplied with display models before making public announcement of specifications and styling changes.

x-ray machine, Chester Schram, 418 Michigan avenue, Gladstone, Paper company employee, and Miss Ann Wohlen of Escanaba, assisting Berglund in the work of the clinic. Yesterday the clinic was at the Birds Eye Veneer company plant, and the remainder of the month will hold clinics for the public at the Junior and Senior high schools.

City Taxes This Year Are Slightly Increased

Escanaba property owners will pay $2.14 more per thousand dollars of assessed valuation for county and school taxes this year as a result of the re-evaluation of city and county property by the state tax commission. The rate this year is $21.38 per thousand as compared with $19.24 last year.

Increased county and school budgets based on the increase in valuation of city property bring about the tax increase, City Clerk Carl E. Anderson explained. Actually the tax rolls will not be changed to conform with the re-evaluation figures until next spring.

The budgets for county and schools as applied to the city this year and for 1944 are shown below:

1945	Tax
County budget	$82,108.02 $ 3.94
School, plus
one mill tax	85,627.84 9.32
School debt	28,589.80 3.12
Total tax	$21.38

1944	Tax
County budget	$61,218.23 $ 7.78
School, plus
one mill tax	62,543.31 7.94
School debt	27,709.06 3.52
Total tax	$19.24

The total tax for the current year as compared to 1944 is shown in the following table:

1945	1944
City	$13.12 $13.96
County and school	21.38 19.24

Totals $34.50 $33.20
Thus, as the table above indicates, the total increase is actually only $1.30 per thousand.

City taxes are due on Dec. 10.

The accident occurred the night of Nov. 14 when Leo and a younger brother were headlighting deer.

With The Deer Hunters

Friends of hunter Adolph Sarasin are offering their condolences again this year. They report that it was the same old story, Adolph got lost and got buck fever, but got no buck. He spent so much time trying to find himself in the woods at McFarland that he didn't have time enough to find his venison, according to the camp reporter.

Dead-shot Herman Mielke was another old hunter with a zero score for the deer season. Up to Thanksgiving Day all Herman did was waste bullets up around Ralph, and when the snow came he was disgusted with this year's hunting.

Successful hunters of the last couple days are Joe Parent of 326 North 13th street and William Sovey of 329 North 13th street. Sovey on Tuesday bagged a 150-pound deer, and Parent killed a 185-pounder yesterday. Both hunt near LaBranche.

Learn To Relax
During The Day

Crowsfeet fanning out around the eyes, and gaunt lines running beside the nose and mouth, are the alarm signals of an over-strained nervous system. Too busy to relax? That's just the trouble—the busiest woman should set aside a few minutes for relaxation each morning and afternoon.

An office worker, sitting most of the time, should get up and walk around the room, or step to the window and gulp a few deep breaths of fresh air. A salesgirl, on her feet a great deal, will be more rested if she slips to the employees' lounge and stretches out for a few minutes.

A good way to rest muscles tensed from prolonged typing, or nerves jangled by the children's clamor, is to sit down, knees apart and feet flat on the floor. Eyes closed and hands relaxed in the lap, slowly raise your left arm to an overhead vertical position. Then let it drop like a dead weight to your side. Do this several times with one arm and then the other.

Wise housewives cotton to a handy bottled air freshener, ideal for clearing musty, closed off rooms, stuffy closets and stale smoke-filled atmospheres from yesterday's party. It makes things pleasant, too, for those confined to sick rooms.

A broom that is sprinkled occasionally with a little kerosene will gather dust more easily.

days and attended the wedding of her sister.

Mrs. Richard Juetten and son Ray have left for Oconto, Wis., where they will spend the Thanksgiving holidays. The Juetten residence is at 2336 Lake Shore Drive.

Teeners Protest
Recreation Cut
In Indianapolis

By JOHN JAMESON

(AP) Newsfeatures

Indianapolis—Cut a rug? Sure thing!

Cut a city park budget? No sir! And a noisy swarm of teen-agers led by their suave spokesman convinced the city council of that.

The scene was a city council meeting, where the city dads had gathered to consider the budget, from which an item of $40,000 for city parks and recreation had been cut.

More than 100 teen canteeners, led by Ed Warren, their president, demanded that the cut be restored.

Warren explained the importance of spending money for the youngsters' recreation, and how the kids had raised $600 and spent it on one canteen.

He told the councilmen not to be the kind "who don't want young people to have any fun" and added:

"Where are we supposed to go? To taverns?"

That was enough. The $40,000 item was put back in the budget.

Warren heads the teen council governing more than 9,000 teen-agers.

The council is composed of two "rep reps" from each of the 30 neighborhood canteens. These 60 kids plan and co-ordinate the activities of the local groups and elect their own officers.

The loudest with the city council was not the first time Indianapolis had heard from the canteeners.

They have their own column in three Indianapolis papers. They conduct two radio programs each Saturday and publish a bi-weekly house organ called the "Hot Shot."

It puts out the latest teen dope under such column-headings as "Shootin' the Lip" and "Korney Corner."

Names of the neighborhood canteens are symbolic of their "live" members. The kids belong to the Boogie Barn, Buzz Bucket, Harmony Hut, Jive Hive, Merry Melody Manor and such.

The teen movement began three years ago and is headed by Mrs. Wayne Arnholter, a paid director who devotes her entire time to the project.

The teeners, now that they have the city organized, plan to extend the council to cover the state and then the nation. There is even talk of an international organization, they say.

"Why not? If you're hep, you're hep in any language."

Use Second Brush
For Natural Look
In Using Mascara

Don't bemoan the fact that you weren't born with a luxurious fringe of long, black eyelashes. Those of you who have short, thin, light-tipped lashes can "thicken" and "lengthen" them to rival the most beautiful fringes you've seen with a clever application of mascara.

But there are several "musts" to observe when accenting lashes. If you are to avoid an artificial look, warns Fannie Brown, a top-flight model who instructs aspiring young models about correct make-up at the Barbizon Studio for Fashion Modeling.

First, choose a waterproof mascara, she advises, and use two brushes instead of just the one. After rubbing mascara well into the damp bristles, brush them through the lashes. For the best effect, concentrate the heaviest application on the outer half of the upper lashes.

Then take a clean wet brush and go over them immediately to separate the hairs. This will give lashes a natural, rather than stiff, beaded look.

Never apply mascara to the lower lashes if you have "shadows" under the eyes, warns Miss Brown. It usually adds five years to your age.

Something different in the way of hats is the medieval-inspired hood, available in black, brown and many winter colors. It may feature a deep back ruffle, a peaked top, or an edging in metallic Mexican ball fringe.

Shanghai Women Look
To America for Style

By RICHARD CUSHING

Shanghai, (AP)—Now that the war is over—and the Americans are here—Shanghai women are becoming acutely clothes-conscious.

This is the style center of the Orient, but during the Japanese occupation "City" women generally went around in slacks and sweaters. There was little attempt to dress well.

But now there's a hungry clamor for dresses of all kinds and evening gowns to match the city's awakening night life. Women here would give almost anything for a 1945 fashion magazine from the states. Their pre-war copies are worn out from use.

The few American women war correspondents here have been busy answering questions as to the latest styles back home, and have to reply that actually there has been little change through the war years.

On the other hand, Shanghai women are astounded to hear of shoe rationing and of the non-existence in the states of such bountiful items here as silk.

Want New Dresses
"Women went around on their bikes while the Japs were here, and were satisfied with wearing slacks and sweaters," says Madame Elinora Garnett, Shanghai's leading style expert. "But now they are beginning to ask about pretty afternoon dresses and evening clothes."

"We are beginning to live again."

Everyone wants new dresses from America. Shanghai women look to Hollywood and New York, rather than to Paris or London, to set the pace in style. This is largely because of the influence of motion pictures and American magazines—highly popular here.

The demand now is for simple, practical dresses; generally dark in color. Shanghai women choose a dress or suit combination that can serve various purposes. Costs are high and materials scarce—with the exception of silk.

The war has greatly increased the demand for American materials. This is in part because the Japanese brought great quantities of seized American textile goods here from Manila, Hong Kong and other ports.

Shanghai— which previously looked primarily to Europe—got to know American materials such as sharkskin and color-fast cotton prints, which now are greatly in demand.

American furs also are highly prized because Chinese furs generally are treated with local or Japanese dyes which are clearly inferior. Feminine Shanghai wants its Persian Lamb, mink or beaver from the states.

When it comes to hats, however, Shanghai is loyal to Paris. Women are going without hats or wearing wrap-around turbans until French styles come back.

Chinese women of means dress smartly, with accent on simplicity and conservatism. Lately they have attempted matching coat and dress, where before they would wear a flowered dress and plain jacket.

Chinese as well as foreign women in this international metropolis have developed a demand for American styles.

One idiosyncrasy of the Chinese is that they wear their sable furs on the inside of their coats—for on the outside such luxury would give away the fact they have money. The most expensive of furs are sewn inside, as a warm lining.

Marion D. Dufour
Becomes Bride Of
Michael K. Farrell

Miss Marion D. Dufour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Dufour, 313 South 12th street, and Michael K. Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Farrell, 920 Sheridan Road, were united in marriage at a ceremony which took place Monday morning, Nov. 19, at St. Joseph's rectory. Rev. Fr. Francis Hoffer solemnized the service.

Attending the couple were Miss Eleanor Bourdais, a close friend of the bride, and Francis Guay.

The bride wore a lovely aqua wool dress with autumn brown accessories. A corsage of red American Beauty roses completed the costume. The maid of honor wore moss green wool with matching accessories, and a corsage of yellow tea roses.

A wedding dinner was served at the Dells.

The couple left on a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, the bride for traveling wearing an olive green suit with black accessories.

Mrs. Farrell is a graduate of St. Joseph high school and is employed by the Michigan Bell Telephone company. Mr. Farrell was recently honorably discharged after five years of service, 42 months of which was spent overseas. He is now employed by the I. Stephenson company.

It is decidedly unnecessary and undesirable to keep honey in the ice box. Cold honey is as thick as "molasses in January." It's difficult to use as a spread or for sweetening cereals and the like. Full-strength honey will keep for months at ordinary room temperature as long as it's kept tightly covered.

Questions and Answers On FM Radio Operation

When the war started, FM radio was scarcely five years old, and public knowledge of what FM is and what it does was just beginning to assume nationwide significance.

Now, the Federal Communications Commission has established FM broadcasting in the new band of 88 to 108 megacycles in the radio spectrum, and FM again is in the forefront of radio news everywhere.

But many thousands of individuals today are unfamiliar with FM, either because their interest lagged since FM radios were not made during the war or because they were too young to appreciate and remember the facts about FM widely disseminated before the war.

In view of these facts, leaders in the radio industry believe that listeners would benefit by a redefinition of FM and the difference between frequency modulation (FM) broadcasting and the type of standard broadcasting now most widely employed, called AM or amplitude modulation.

The Radio Manufacturers Association, as a result, has issued, in "question and answer" form, the principal facts about FM, brought up to date in line with postwar developments recently made public. Some of these are as follows:

Q. What is FM?
A. A new method of broadcasting that is normally operated in the higher portion of the radio spectrum and which makes possible faithful and natural reproduction of all musical tones from the deepest bass to the highest overtone.

Q. What is the chief difference between AM and FM?
A. An AM (standard) receiver responds to variations in amplitude, whereas an FM receiver responds to variations in frequency. Much electrical noise is not present in the higher frequencies used in FM.

Q. Are two different types of broadcasting methods necessary?
A. Yes. Most AM stations, including all those now on the major networks, make use of ground waves which follow the curvature of the earth and which have a range of around 100 miles in the daytime and up to several hundred miles (for clear channel stations) at night. Most FM stations use direct ray broadcasting—the radio wave travels on a straight line from station to horizon. The maximum range, both day and night, is around 100 miles.

Q. Are different types of radio receivers necessary to receive both FM and AM programs?
A. Yes, although many of the new model radios will be, in reality, FM and AM sets in one. These receivers will contain the essential components of both FM and AM and by means of a switch will be capable of changing to receive either kind of program.

Q. What is the position of FM in the radio spectrum?
A. The new FM frequencies, just authorized by the Federal Communications Commission, are from 88 to 108 megacycles. The width of the entire band is 20,000,000 cycles.

Q. What is the position of AM in the radio spectrum?
A. From 550 to 1600 kilocycles—a width of 1,050,000 cycles.

Q. How many transmission channels are afforded in each range?
A. The present number of channels in the AM band is 106. A few of these channels are allocated for clear channel operation (one station to the channel) while the rest of the channels are operated on a shared channel basis. Present channels are more than saturated with over 911 broadcast stations. Due to night time skip on these frequencies, severe congestion producing heterodyne "squeal" interference is prevalent. On the other hand the FM allocation offers room for several thousand stations without such interference existing between any stations. This is due to the fact that although there are approximately the same number of channels available (100 channels), these channels may be reassigned over and over again on a shared basis without the danger of interference due to the absence of "skip" on the very high frequencies used.

Q. What is being done to increase the number of FM stations?
A. Plans are reported well under way for the establishment of more FM stations in the larger cities and many new stations in smaller towns. As has already been pointed out, the saturated condition of the AM bands prevented the establishment of new stations for special types of programs and entertainment. Many schools now have plans to establish stations of their own so that they may bring to the public especially prepared educational and training programs. The cost factor is also in favor of the establishment of stations to render specialized public services as the cost of equivalent transmitters are appreciably lower for FM than for AM.

Q. Because of the relatively small range of FM (direct ray) transmitters, what is being done toward the establishments of FM networks?
A. Several plans have been suggested to tie FM stations together for network operation. The same methods as now used for the large broadcast networks will also be used for chain operation of FM stations. Technical improvements are, however, contemplated by the use of recent technical developments in order to improve the tonal and dynamic range of the program material. These technical improvements of connecting one station with another may take the form of one of the following methods: the laying of coaxial cables underground; the linking of stations with fixed relay transmitters located at appropriate intervals between towns; the use of planes flying at 30,000 feet above the station and used as an automatic means of relaying the station signal to a wide service area.

Q. Getting back to the FM set in the home is it more complicated to operate than the present type of AM or standard broadcast radio receiver?

A. Operation of the FM set will be practically identical to the operation of the current or present AM sets. The improved tone control will, no doubt, be incorporated in all FM sets to bring out the wider tone range that FM is capable of rendering.

Q. Will FM be available in all models?
A. Radio manufacturers are expected to use the FM principle in midsize, table, portable, console and other models. Obviously, the best reproduction will be possible only in receivers having loud speakers of adequate size.

Q. What about FM prices?
A. FM sets will be somewhat higher because of somewhat higher manufacturing costs. The difference, however, will not be prohibitive.

Q. How can one be sure FM is dependable? What is its background?

A. FM, as well as AM, long has been known in the science of radio. Credit for the invention of the present FM system of broadcasting and receiving goes to Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, professor of electrical engineering at Columbia university, New York, who also invented the original regenerative circuit.

In 1940 the Federal Communications Commission approved FM for commercial broadcast operation, at the same time praising its performance. A number of manufacturers introduced FM transmitters and receivers later in that year, and until civilian production was stopped in March, 1942, energetically pushed both the development and sale of FM equipment.

Many further improvements, the result of wartime radio advances, have been made in the new FM sets and in no sense is FM "in the experimental stage."

Q. How many FM receivers are in use today, not counting the new models?
A. Close to 500,000, compared to around 60,000,000 AM sets.

Q. Will FM supplant AM as the standard broadcasting method?
A. No, since present developments are in the direction of having the two systems supplement each other in affording radio listeners every type of broadcasting—to be further augmented in the near future by the addition of television.

Q. Summing up briefly, what are some of the principal advantages of FM from the standpoint of the listener?

A. 1. Practical freedom from natural static.
2. Suppression of other interfering noises—noises originating in electrical appliances and machinery.
3. High fidelity reception—the full range of the scale audible to the human ear.
4. No more scrambling of programs from two or more stations.

5. A service range for FM transmitters that is substantially the same by day as by night—not true of any AM station.
6. Because of the wider frequency band available, more FM stations will be possible, even though each has a much wider individual channel than do AM stations.

7. Possibility of more localized radio broadcasting service, particularly desirable in small towns and cities with no stations at present.
8. Certainty that the major networks will take advantage of the growing popularity of FM to institute new and interesting programs.

Q. Since the FCC has assigned FM to the new band of 88 to 108 megacycles, replacing the old band of 42 to 50 megacycles, can present FM sets receive programs on both frequencies?
A. For receivers designed for the 42 to 50 megacycle frequencies only, some companies are preparing to introduce an inexpensive and easily installed converter, which will permit prewar receivers to operate in the new band.

Q. When will FM programs be available on the new band?
A. All present FM stations have been ordered by the FCC to start experimental operations in the new band on December 1 and to establish full program service by January 1.

NAMED POLICE CHIEF
Menominee — Joseph C. Kellner, veteran member of the Menominee police force, last night was appointed acting police chief by Mayor Otto R. Elkmeyer to serve out the unexpired term of Anton Jensen, who resigned to join the Herald-Leader as circulation manager.

The appointment, which was unanimously confirmed on motion of Ald. John H. Dunlap, supported by Ald. Herbert Beversdorf, is until the first Monday of next May, when council elects its staff of appointive city officers. Kellner will draw the full salary of chief, $2,220.

DETROIT MAN IS BADLY INJURED

Truck And Light Coach
Collide On Lake
Shore Drive

Al Howard, 12622 Littlefield, Detroit, is in St. Francis hospital with a broken collar bone, concussion and fracture of the second finger on his left hand, injuries he sustained when a light coach he was driving struck a Clairmont Transfer Co. truck on Lake Shore Drive in Gladstone just east of the Tenth street intersection Wednesday afternoon.

Howard was unconscious when removed from his auto and was rushed to St. Francis hospital. Loyal Leonard, Escanaba, driver of the truck, was uninjured. Both vehicles were badly damaged.

Howard was traveling eastward on Lake Shore Drive while the truck was traveling toward Escanaba. As officers investigating the accident piece it together, Howard was attempting to pass another car and unable to make it applied his brakes putting his auto into a skid. It struck the front end of the truck and spun around traveling some distance and coming to rest on the south side of the pavement, partially on the shoulder.

Howard was apparently driving at an excessive rate of speed, one officer said. A deer which had been on Howard's auto, wound up on the lawn of the J. F. Card residence. It apparently was torn from the auto, struck the van of the truck over the tractor cab and was batted or thrown more than 75 feet to the Card property.

Sergeant LaLande Given Silver Star
With the Sixth Army in Japan — For gallantry in action against the enemy at Aparri, Luzon, Staff Sergeant Eli T. LaLande, whose mother, Mrs. Della LaLande, lives at 18 N. 7th St., Gladstone, Mich., has been awarded the Silver Star Medal by Major General Innis P. Swift, Commander of I Corps, now part of General Walter Krueger's Sixth Army occupation forces in Japan.

Sgt. LaLande, a Pic. at the time, together with Lt. Lawrence J. Evans of Spokane, Washington, Sgt. Dilbert Griffith of Chandler, Arizona, and another man volunteered for an extremely hazardous reconnaissance patrol to determine enemy defenses and locate a safe portion of the beach on which the main forces could land for the assault on Aparri. After successfully completing their mission and signaling their company to effect a landing, at dawn the patrol again volunteered to lead a detachment which assaulted and secured the Aparri Airfield.

"The courage and gallantry displayed by members of the patrol," General Swift stated in making the awards to the men, "made possible the closing of the last supply and escape port for the enemy and thereby contributed much to the success of the Corps in the Luzon Campaign."

Sgt. LaLande, a veteran of the New Guinea and Leyte campaigns before going to Luzon, is now on occupation duty in Japan. He is a graduate of Gladstone High School.

GIRL SCOUTS GO CAROLING

Library Adventures

By Arnold Mulder

Be on the alert for the fading out of a large number of the authors who have had their place in the sun of public approval the past five years or so. Unless all signs fail, many more popular names will lose their appeal quickly, even precipitately, than usually fade out of the public consciousness in twice or three times that length of time.

The reason of course is that a disproportionately large number of today's popular authors were made by the war. In most cases, their subject matter was of far greater interest to their public than their art or talent in treating their material. Knock the props from under their special subject and you knock the props from under them as writers.

Do you ask for specific names? It would not be too difficult to supply them, but it is hardly necessary to do so. The literature that flourished during the First World War is recent enough so it can be used as illustration of what is in store for the popular writers of today. Almost anyone who lived through that period, and who was somewhat familiar with the literary scene of the time, could supply a dozen names offhand of writers who, during the war, gave the impression of "belonging to the ages" but who had been almost wholly forgotten five years later.

Let me supply, wholly at random, just one name, merely as an illustration. During the First World War the name of Philip Gibbs was one to conjure with. So famous did this highly articulate Englishman become that the British government saw good politics in knighting him, and for a short time he appeared in the publishing lists as "Sir Philip Gibbs."

Few could have imagined in 1918 that the name Gibbs would have a very unfamiliar ring by 1925 and perhaps no one would have believed that by 1945 there would be nothing left of the author, Sir Philip Gibbs, except a single phrase that he used as the title of one of his post-war books. Today, again, as during the years following the first World War, we frequently speak of a war revelation that "now it can be told." That's almost literally all that is left of Gibbs, and 999 out of a thousand who use the phrase don't even know that he coined it.

Or take a more flagrant example—Guy Empy, author of "Over the Top." During the First World War that author and his book were better known than are the author of "Gone With the Wind" and her novel today. To some of us who took note of the literary reputations of the time it would have seemed preposterous to suggest that the war-nourished author would be dead almost before the cease fire order had sounded. But so it was. Where is Empy today? I wonder. Who has heard his name in the last 25 years. Recently I pronounced the name and the title of the book before a group of 28 highly intelligent young people. In not even one of them did the name or the title stimulate so much as a single brain cell. Such is war-inflated fame!

BACTERIA MAY BE OIL FACTOR

Laboratory Experiments Indicate Role Played

Washington — Bacteria may have had a number of important roles in the formation and development of the earth's petroleum deposits. Dr. Claude E. ZoBell of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography stated in a lecture before a Washington scientific audience. They may also have had something to do with the relative scarcity of petroleum today, he added, for it seems likely that much more oil has been formed in the long course of geologic history than is now present in the rocks, and it is known that some species of bacteria can feed on petroleum and related compounds, unlikely though they may seem as food materials.

There is little direct evidence that bacteria helped to make oil, Dr. ZoBell admitted. However, laboratory experiments have given a number of very interesting clues, some of which are being followed intensively in the hope of throwing more light on this most difficult and baffling geologic riddle.

If bacteria did aid in producing oil, it was probably a highly complex process as well as a very long one. As many as 40 or 50 different kinds of bacteria may have been involved.

Most geologists now believe that petroleum formation started with the dead plant or animal materials. These of course are always subject to bacterial action. One of the things that happens to such organic remains is the bacterial removal of elements other than carbon and hydrogen, especially sulfur, phosphorus and nitrogen. The nearer organic remains come to consist of carbon and hydrogen alone, of course, the nearer they are to being hydrocarbons, which are the constituents of petroleum and natural gas. This general observation receives some backing from the known fact that bacteria can convert dead organic remains into the simplest of hydrocarbons (methane), and also some of the most complex of hydrocarbons (bacterial pigments), as well as a few other compounds of intermediate complexity.

Another thing that certain bacteria may have done toward oil formation is hinted at in the activity of some species in releasing quantities of hydrogen from organic compounds. Addition of hydrogen to carbon under heat and pressure (hydrogenation) is a standard method for manufacturing synthetic oil out of coal or lignite. Bacteria-free hydrogen, under the heat and pressure conditions in the earth's crust, may have been added to buried carbonaceous deposits in a similar manner, Dr. ZoBell suggested.

'Hedgehog' Revealed As Navy Anti-Sub Rocket Weapon

Washington — The "hedgehog," a multiple rocket launcher used against submarines, has been released from wartime wraps by the Navy. Officially designated as Anti-Submarine Projector, Mark 10, it consisted of a bristling array of 24 big rockets carrying heavy charges of high explosive. When the approximate location of a submerged U-boat was plotted, all 24 of the missiles could be launched in two and one-half seconds. They fell in an elliptical pattern in the target area and immediately sank, nose down.

Unlike the conventional "ashcan" depth charge, these weapons would explode only on direct contact with the target. Thus, if the listening devices picked up the "bump" of an underwater explosion the commander of the attacking ship knew positively that a hit had been scored.

The "hedgehog" originally a British invention, was adopted and improved by the U. S. Navy, and used with great effect in breaking up the German "wolf-pack" U-boat campaign.

The weapons were manufactured in this country by the Carrier Corporation at Syracuse, N. Y.

CITY TAKES ON HOLIDAY MOOD

Churches To Stress The Return Of Peace

A white Thanksgiving and the first one in years to be blessed with peace finds the people of Manistique generally in the keeping with the occasion.

Many young men and women, still in the service, will be home on leave or furlough, many others are home to stay, students in colleges are also home for a few fleeting hours.

Feasting will generally be the order of the day in practically all homes of the city.

Churches, which have always stressed the basic significance of the occasion, will emphasize the blessing of peace. Five of the city's eight churches are uniting in a special worship service at the First Methodist church at 10 o'clock in the morning. Joining in the services are the Presbyterian, Free Methodist, Beth Baptist, First Baptist and First Methodist.

Masses will be offered as usual at 6:30 and 8 a. m. at St. Francis de Sales Catholic church; Zion Lutheran church will hold services at 10 and there will be a Holy Communion service at St. Albans' Episcopal church at 10.

Chemical Structure Of Streptomycin Is Found By Research

Rayhu, N. J.—The actual chemical structure of streptomycin, antibiotic that rivals penicillin as a remedy for infections, has worked out almost completely by a group of scientists at the research laboratories of Merck and Company here. Details of part of the work are reported in the forthcoming issue of Science by Drs. Norman G. Brink, Frederick A. Kuehl, Jr., and Karl Folkers.

With this knowledge of the chemistry of streptomycin it may be possible to synthesize and manufacture the drug. In that case patients and their physicians would not be dependent as at present on the amounts of material that can be obtained by the tedious process of growing the soil organism, streptomycetes and extracting the chemical from it.

Development and manufacture of a master chemical for germ-fighting that could replace streptomycin, penicillin and other antibiotics, or of a series of such chemicals, each designed for overcoming a particular group of disease germs, is another possible result of the discovery of how one such substance is put together chemically in nature. Hope for this is less solid than for the synthesis of streptomycin, difficult as that undoubtedly will be. The germ-stopping activity of antibiotics may depend on the entire chemical structure of the various substances, not on any part of it, and may be lost when the original structure is altered.

New Radio System Aided B-29 Raids

Dayton, Ohio. — High altitude communication, long a serious problem for our flyers, was overcome during the war, with development of a system that kept pilots and crew members of strato-flying airplanes in radio contact with ground stations and other aircraft. Brig. Gen. T. C. Rives of the Air Technical Service Command has announced.

Operating at altitudes from 25,000 to 40,000 feet, where former sets had proven ineffective, this radio communication equipment helped make our B-29 raids over Japan successful. Featuring automatic tuning with pushbutton control through 11 different channels, the system overcame serious natural handicaps of high altitude flying.

At high elevations speech difficulties are great and it is only with this long-range transmitting liaison set that proper communication is possible. The set operates effectively at 40,000 feet, whereas the radio formerly used was capable of performance at heights not greater than 25,000 feet.

At the closing days of the war, the 76th fought in the Gera area and, just before V-E Day, established a bridgehead across the Mulde River.

College To Erect 7 Duplex Homes

Marquette. — Cooperating with the Northern Michigan College of Education, which is preparing to set up living accommodations on the campus for married war veterans enrolled as students, the city commission has authorized the department of public works to provide sewer and water connections from Waldo street for seven housing units.

Each of the structures is a "duplex" unit, with quarters for two families. There are three rooms and a bath in each apartment and they will be oil-heated. The units are being brought here from Willow Run and are expected to arrive in about 10 days, the commission was told by Stephen L. Garber, general manager of public works and utilities, who said the temporary houses will be set up and had conferred with Dr. H. A. Tape, president of Northern, relative to the plans.

WAC OFFICER — One of the newly commissioned officers is Lt. Thaddea Catherine Dunnebacke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Dunnebacke, 711 N. Front St., Marquette, Mich., now at Fort Des Moines, Ia.

She enlisted in the Women's Army Corps in March, 1943. For eight months she was on recruiting duty in Michigan. After her assignment to Fort Sheridan, Ill., she served with the recruiting detachment in Detroit, Mich. In May of this year she became an instructor in the special training unit at Fort Sheridan.

Lieutenant Dunnebacke is a 1942 graduate of the Northern Michigan College of Education. Before enlisting in the WAC she was a home economics teacher in Manistique, Mich.

A brother, 1st Lt. Francis G. Dunnebacke, is with the Engineer Corps in Manila. Another brother, 1st Lt. Martin J. Dunnebacke, who was with the Seventh Air Force in the Pacific, is now stationed at San Francisco.

British Announce New Jet Fighter — The British Navy's announcement of the de Havilland jet-propelled plane, the Vampire, to be used as a carrier-based fighter, indicates a new advance attained by English jet-engine manufacturers.

Looking somewhat like the twin boomed Lockheed P-38 Lightning, it is said to have a level flight speed of over 500 miles an hour and a ceiling of nearly 50,000 feet. Powered with a single de Havilland Goblin jet engine, which also powered the original Lockheed fighter, the P-30 Shooting Star, the Vampire is of all-metal construction and has arresting gear for carrier landings retracting into the exhaust jet cowling.

Another very successful British jet plane, the twin-engined Gloster Meteor, was the only Allied jet fighter to see action in the war, but except for the fact that its speed is in the 500-mile-per-hour class, performance data are still restricted.

Off The Chest ...

BY JAY ARRELL

We are inclined to believe that some of our representative citizens need a little brushing up on civics. We are not pointing the finger of scorn because — we may as well confess — it was our own ignorance which caused us to come to this conclusion.

A lady called us up the other morning and told us she had a matter which Lowell

she wished to present to our state representative and our state senator. Would we please tell her their names and addresses? "Why yes," we answered, "their names are — well now — I just can't think of them right off the bat. I'll look it up and call you back. All right?"

We walked over to our stock of booklets and pamphlets which are kept to supply such data and found, to our disgust, that the Michigan Manual, which we had relied on, was of the vintage of 1927. The phone rang and we left to follow a news lead. On the way, we thought we would kill two birds with one stone and find out the names of our legislators on the way.

"What are the names of our state representative and our state senator?" we asked an acquaintance we met a few feet from the shop. His answer was a frank "Damifknaw." The next party we met gave us the same answer. Another one countered "You kidding me?" "No I really would like to know," we answered. "I thought you were a newspaperman," he said, then finally admitted his ignorance.

We talked to six people before we got a lead and that was only to the effect that the state senator "is a guy from the Soo—his name sounds like Gerven, but that ain't it." The seventh man we contacted did what we should have done in the first place. He called up the county clerk's office. Then, and not till then, did the fact hit that D. F. Morrison of Germfak is the state representative and George Girschbach of Sault Ste. Marie is state senator. "Oh sure! sure! sure! Morrison and Girschbach! We knew it all the time, but it slipped our mind. You know how it is?"

We went back to the shop and checked over the old state manual. Mr. Morrison was state representative in 1927. Had been before that. Has been ever since.

How we wish it distinctly understood that we are not intent on grinding any political ax when we bring this matter up. If we would use a more expedient time to present the matter. We have no criticism of Senator Girschbach or Representative Morrison. Frankly, we admire their ability to serve their constituents with such little friction that people vote for them from unconscious habit. But we cannot accept indifference on the part of the public as a wholesome sign.

We do not intend to mention the names of the people we interviewed. It would embarrass them. But we will say that they are good public spirited citizens. Some of them we know to be outspoken on matters affecting the municipal

CITY MAY HAVE SYMPHONY ORCH

Meeting Soon To Be Called To Launch Organization

A symphony orchestra, made up and directed by local talent is the objective of a move soon to be launched in Manistique.

About twenty local musicians have already signified their willingness to become a part of such an organization and a number more are still to be contacted. A meeting for the purpose of forming such a club or organization will be called some time in the near future and assistance from a number of local civic and service groups will be asked to help give it permanence and public support.

Preliminary plans for action immediately following organization, will be the arrangement of meeting and practice schedules leading to the ultimate presentation of a series of concerts. The concerts, it is planned, will be held after the first of the year.

Musicians interested in the movement have delegated, Carl Olson, Joseph Giovannini and Miss Margaret Johnson to act as temporary spokesmen in getting the orchestra launched.

LETTERS GIVEN TO 27 GRIDDEES

Ruwitch Makes Awards At EHS; Only Five Are Juniors

Football Coach George Ruwitch yesterday awarded football letters to 27 Escanaba high school football players in recognition of their services during the past season. The awards, as well as the presentation of a student manager's emblem to Bill Harvey, were made at an assembly session of the school student body yesterday morning.

Letter winners were: Don Scott, Don Wickholm, Bill Peterson, Jack Schille, Ted Chapekis, Cliff Weir, Jack Finn, LeRoy Finn, Bob DuFour, Jim Ross, K. Wylie, Bob McDonald, Warren Lee, Charles Scheibner, Vernon Morin, Ken Dufresne, Roger Peterson, Charles Doyler, Dick Baldwin, Lester Ness, Ray Jorgenson, Bill Finnegan, Bill Turner, Gordon Schills, Jack Peterson, Jim Biehler and Dave Friets. The first 22 men listed are all seniors and the remaining five are juniors. No sophomore earned a football letter this season.

Don Scott, Don Wickholm, Bill Peterson and Jack Schills won their third successive years. Two-year football letter winners include Chapekis, Weir, Jack Finn, LeRoy Finn, Dufour, Ross, Wylie, McDonald, Scheibner, Dufresne and Roger Peterson.

The unusually heavy percentage of senior lettermen leaves the Eskymos with only a sprinkling of lettermen to provide the nucleus for the 1946 football team. The returning letter winners do not include any of the lads in the starting lineup for the 1945 Eskymos.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Basketball substitutes will not be able to barge out on the floor with the blowing of the scorer's horn this season. They will have to wait on the sideline until the referee signals the substitutes to enter the game. Failure to do so will result in a technical foul. This is not a new rule but it has been generally ignored in the past. By direction of the state athletic committee, it will be rigidly enforced in the future. Incidentally, basketball timers are reminded not to stop the clock when the scorer's horn sounds for a substitution but to wait for the referee's signal.

A principal rule change this year prohibits any player who is removed from the lineup during the final four minutes of the fourth quarter from re-entering the game. An official intermission will be taken as soon as the ball is dead after four minutes of playing time have elapsed in the final quarter. Players in the game after resumption of play following the two-minute intermission are affected by this ruling. The official intermission in the mid-way point of the fourth quarter will be taken whether there was a previous time-out in that period or not.

Incidentally, the Escanaba-St. Joseph game which will open the season for both local high school teams has been postponed to Friday, Nov. 30. The game originally was scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 27 when it appeared that the Thanksgiving holiday would come on the last Thursday of the month. Both teams have been practicing for the past 10 days but the Trojan and Eskymo coaches, Fred Boddy and Jim Rouman, welcomed the postponement of the opener to Nov. 30 which will give them more time to prepare their teams for their official debut.

The Northern Wisconsin-Michigan baseball circuit will resume operations next summer after a three-year lapse due to the war. The Niagara Badgers have already announced their entry in the league. Others invited to participate are L'Anse, South Range, Iron River, Iron Mountain Rangers, Crystal Falls, Aurora and the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Ford Twins. The status of some of the team that held league franchises before the war is still uncertain. The circuit was the top baseball league of the peninsula in the pre-war days.

Sault Ste. Marie joins the growing list of upper peninsula schools that plan to install lighting systems for their football fields next fall. The Soo drive for funds to purchase lights has already started and a number of contributions have been made. Menominee is the only other school that has definitely announced plans for the installation of lights for 1946, but unofficial reports indicate that other schools considering night football include Gladstone, Marquette and Manistique.

WAR ANTIDOTE IS SIMPLE ONE

Teach Europe To Play Baseball Instead Of Kill, Says Bonura

By KRIS KREEGER

New Orleans, Nov. 21 (AP)—Big Zeke Bonura is back from the wars with a simple suggestion for world peace: "Teach those people in Europe to play baseball instead of to kill."

Zeke, who held down first base at various times for Washington, the New York Giants, and both Chicago teams, declares he tried his idea with excellent results while serving as an army sports director in the Mediterranean theater.

"Everywhere we played," he said, "the people were very enthused about the game. Even the Germans. Once after some prisoners had been watching us a German captain asked to see the ball."

"You people ought to learn to use that instead of to kill," I told him. He said yes, that was right."

Zeke, who was a master sergeant, related how a British colonel had invited him to instruct 262 British officers in baseball. "After ten days the colonel made me an offer to go to England and teach the game. I don't know—it would take years and years," But Zeke is giving some thought to the matter.

Scoring Error Will Be Argued For Long Time

By CHIP ROYAL

(AP) Newsfeatures Sports Editor Chicago—Down through the years, we've all heard about this and that American's historic words. But probably none were so important to baseball as those uttered by Bill Guthrie, some years ago.

The former American League umpire didn't like second guessers any more than the average sports fan. So when he heard about some of the boys disputing one of his decisions, Bill said:

"Here ain't no lose ones. It's either dis way or dat way!" Most baseball fans never thought much about Guthrie's remarks until they tried to do their own scoring in the record-breaking (explanations below) sixth game of the recent Tiger-Cub classic struggle.

It wasn't bad enough to follow 38 players in the score book through three hours and 28 minutes of the longest World Series game ever played, but five hours after the epic battle was over, the scorers had to use an eraser.

Most of the hundreds of baseball men attending the 42nd world championship clashes were milling around the press hangout trying to figure out whether Hank Greenberg was the hero or the goat of the series.

Practically all agreed that the guy who roars for the Tigers at the plate got a bum deal when the official scorers first gave him an error on Star Huk's game-winning clout to left which bounced over Greenberg's shoulder.

Then a courier dashed into the room with the startling news that the boys who decide hits and mis-cues—Martin Haley of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Ed Burns of the Chicago Tribune and Harry Salsinger of the Detroit News—had reversed their decision, giving Hack a double and clearing Hank.

That did it. Before the revelation, the guys ganged up on the scorers and Haley, Burns and Salsinger were hailed on all sides for a daring change of judgment. Then the rush was on to find a precedent for the action.

One wag said the result was comparable to the Hughes-Wilson presidential election in 1916 when Charles went to bed elated only to be deflated in the morning when he heard Woodrow did all right.

Of course the funny man was referring to the 41,708 fans here who struggled to keep up with the proceedings during the game when nine world series marks fell by the boards. The millions who heard the game over the radio knew Hack won the game with a double all the time, for that is the way it was announced to them.

Even so, it was just as tough for the boys and girls in other cities to keep their scorecards on the game as it was for those in the park.

Detroit was credited with 48 times at bat, the most for any club in a series. Both clubs had 94 official trips to the plate, also a new mark. A total of nine pitchers were used in the game and 24 baserunners were left.

Doc Cramer, Eddie Mayo, Rudy York and Andy Pafko tied a series record when they faced opposing hurlers six official times in that hectic episode.

There were other headaches, too, such as scorecards with only 10 innings and lack of room for notes.

Maybe the 1945 championship games were pretty bad as far as baseball playing goes, but they'll be remembered a long time for their scoring difficulties.

Hunting And Fishing

By Sid Gordon

DEER HUNTERS SHOULD TAKE AN OATH

I don't know who started it, but one night we deer hunters all took an oath at camp. Michigan's one buck law was in effect and Dick, Charley, Frank, Ed and myself had just opened our new hunting camp.

After the night meal, we were sitting around and the talk drifted into the subject of safety in the woods. We had agreed upon a code of three shots if anyone became lost when someone suggested that we take a solemn and binding oath not to shoot at a deer until we had seen a pair of horns on its head.

We weren't worried about strange hunters coming into our territory, for we were so far back in the woods that no one invaded our territory. We did not put much faith in doling up in bright red clothing and none of us wore it, but we agreed that a pair of horns was the safest "law" of safety for every hunter.

Some hunters are color blind and all the red one could wear would not protect him against a man who couldn't see color. Nor would anything protect a hunter against the trigger happy fool who shot at anything which moved.

Each of us, according to our camp rules, could invite a guest but the guest had to be passed upon by all of the members. As each was responsible for his own guest, we had the guests take the oath and then it was up to the member to see that he had the best possible time.

Each of us felt that it would be a feather in his cap if his guest were to prove a better hunter than the other's. Each of us strove to show his friend the best hunting territory, the lay of the land and all the finer points in hunting which we had acquired over many years.

Not once, in all those years, did we have a "trigger happy" incident. We all felt that a man could go through the woods with a doe or deer hide on his back and never be shot at by any of us. Some accused us of making the rule so we could violate, but we paid them no attention.

If every hunter were forced to take an oath never to shoot until he actually saw horns on the deer, we would not be reading about the many deaths I am sure will occur this season.

No young hunter, or older one either, can do nearly as much for safety as he who will take a solemn oath not to shoot until he sees horns. This, with the observance of common sense in handling his gun will make a happy season for all of us everywhere.

Newhouser Named Most Valuable Of American League

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Hal Newhouser, Detroit Tigers' hero of the recent World series, who won 25 games in the regular season and then throttled the Chicago Cubs in two tussles of the playoff, has been named the American League's most valuable player for the second straight year by the Baseball Writers' association.

Newhouser's only serious rival was his teammate, second baseman Eddie Mayo, who received widespread credit for having sparked the Tigers to the flag. Of the 24 votes cast by members of the Writers' committee, Newhouser received nine first place ballots to Mayo's seven, but Newhouser's point total of 236 gave him a wide bulge in the final tally.

Mayo, with 164 points, posed out George Stinewiss, the Yankees' fleet baserunner and league leading hitter, who gained four first place votes and a total of 161 points. Dave Ferriss, Boston freshman mound ace, received two votes as top man and 148 points, while George Myatt, of the Washington Senators, placed fifth with a single first place vote and 98 points. Joe Kuhel, Senator first baseman, was the only other player to attract a first place selection. By coincidence, Newhouser's total of 236 points was exactly the same as he won with a year ago. If anything, the Tiger lefty was a greater pitcher the past year than he was in '44, when he scored 29 victories. Although he won only 25 this year against nine losses, he pitched 29 complete games and was very nearly invincible when the chips were down in the final hectic days of the race.

In all, he worked 312 innings for the champions and led the league both in shutouts, (eight) and strikeouts, (211). He did all this, too, despite the fact that he developed a "lump" under his shoulder blade which made it necessary to shoot him full of pain-killers before each game he pitched in the final weeks.

Only one other player, Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics, has won the American League most-valuable award two years running. He did it in 1932-33, as well as in 1935. Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig, Hank Greenberg, Mickey Cochrane and Walter Johnson each was honored twice, but not in successive years.

Eben Barelu Noses Rapid River, 24-22

Salo of Eben broke a tie in the last four seconds of play to give Eben a 24 to 22 nip-and-tuck basketball victory over the Rapid River high school team last night. The teams were never far apart in scoring, the longest margin being five points taken by Rapid early in the game. Both teams played fairly good basketball for early season form.

Rams Need Only Win Over Lions To Clinch Title

Detroit, Nov. 21 (AP)—Cleveland's steady Rams, spearheaded by the throwing of Halfback Bob Waterfield, can sew up their first Western Division championship in the history of the National Professional Football League by dumping the Detroit Lions here tomorrow.

The biggest football crowd ever to jam Briggs Stadium—more than 50,000 fans—was certain to look in on the Turkey Day doings as the Lions make their desperate bid to climb back on even terms with the Rams and stay in the title chase.

Deadlocked with Cleveland for first place until last Sunday's re-sounding thumping at the hands of the New York Giants, the Lions now have lost two league games and would be hopelessly eliminated if the Rams hang up their eighth victory in nine games.

Last year the two teams broke even in a home-and-home set, Cleveland winning here 20 to 17 and the Lions finishing on top 28 to 14 at Cleveland. In their 14 meetings since 1937, Detroit has won eight and Cleveland six.

The Turkey Day kickoff is scheduled for 11 a. m. (E.S.T.).

The Sistine Chapel, with Michelangelo's superb frescoes, called the most perfect work of the 16th century, is the Pope's private chapel.

CAGE OUTLOOK GOOD AT MSC

East Lansing, Nov. 21 (AP)—One of the biggest stockpiles of basketball players in the history of Michigan State College is practicing daily at Jensen fieldhouse, but Coach Ben F. Van Alstyne isn't getting worked up about State's prospects for the coming season.

Beginning his 20th year as Spartan cage mentor, Van Alstyne has ten returning lettermen and five "very promising" freshmen on his squad but says he's worried about the schedule M. S. C. will play. Spartan's card includes seven games with Big Ten quints in addition to home-and-home contests with Notre Dame, Great Lakes and Kentucky to mention a few.

The Spartan coach admitted he had more material to work with than ever before, but indicated it would be difficult to select a starting five for the opener with Michigan Dec. 1 at Ann Arbor. "Anyway I pick, I'm bound to leave plenty of good ball players on the bench," he moaned.

Nextest addition to the squad is Jack Cawood, Navy dischargee and a member of the Spartan squad in 1943. The former Lansing Eastern star, who stands six feet, three inches tall, also starred at center while in a Navy unit at Western Michigan College. Cawood's arrival strengthened M.S.C. at center, where Bill Krall previously was the only veteran candidate.

Five veterans of the 1944 squad include Forwards Sam Fortino and Robin Roberts, Guards Joe Beyer and Joe Krakora and Krall, while ex-servicemen, all members of prewar Spartan teams, are Forwards Ollie White and Dudley Jones, Guards Pat Peppier and Dan Pjeskey and Cawood.

STRIKES CAUSE HEAVY SELLING

BY HUDSON PHILLIPS New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—After climbing to 14-year peaks in preceding sessions, the stock market lost fractions to around 3 points today on heavy selling caused by news of increasing strikes.

General Motors closed 1-1/8 lower after employees in all its plants walked out. This helped depress other auto shares, including Chrysler and Studebaker.

Announcement that Montgomery Ward workers would strike next week forced down that company's shares 2-1/8.

Although the old axiom in Wall Street is not to sell on strike news, it was pointed out that the list hit a new high since 1931 yesterday. Part of today's decline was a technical reaction to the lengthy rise to summits for more than a decade.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 1.1 points at 74.7. Industrial, rails and utilities were off substantially on average. Volume totaled 1,910,000 shares against 2,130,000 Tuesday.

RAIL BONDS SLIP

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Numerous railroad bonds were clipped for losses of from 1 to 3 points today but others were strongly supported and ended up nearly as much. The St. Paul group was singled out for selling. The 5s of 1975 lost 3-3/4 at 85, the adjustment 5s gave up 1-7/8 at 31 1-8 on sales of $1,399,000 and the convertible 4 1/2s backed away 2 1-8 to 36 3/4. The Missouri Pacific group lost from 1 1/4 to 3 1/2 and smaller declines were posted for issues of the New Haven, St. Louis-San Francisco, International Great Northern, and Chicago & Alton.

Firmness was shown by issues of the Rio Grande, some of the Baltimore & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Rock Island, New Orleans, Texas & Mexico and Ontario & Western. American Telephone backed down 2 1/2 points to 149 1/2 as a shaky stock market unsettled listed bonds. U. S. governments were less affected, some of the medium term treasury's moving up close to 1/2 point.

South American loans were mostly higher in an otherwise quiet foreign list.

The market was active, sales totaling $12,230,000, the highest since last August, and compared with $11,060,000 on Tuesday.

CHICAGO PRICES

CHICAGO BUTTER Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—(USDA)—The butter market was firm today and unchanged at OPA ceiling prices.

CHICAGO EGGS Chicago, Nov. 21 (AP)—(USDA)—Eggs were firm; prices unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Closing foreign exchange rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents): Canadian dollar in New York open market 93-16 per cent discount, or 90-8 1/2 U. S. cents, unchanged. Europe: Great Britain $4.03 1/2, unchanged. Latin America: Argentina free 24.68, unchanged; Brazil free 5.25; Mexico 20.65.

TRADING TRENDS

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Stocks: Lower; strike news sets off selling. Bonds: Mixed; B & O issues firm. Cotton: Quiet; mill buying; hedging. Chicago: Wheat: Unchanged to 1/2 off; slumped with rye in late trade. Corn: Unchanged at ceilings. Rye: Unchanged to 5 cents lower; believe some available for December delivery. Cattle: Active, strong to 25 cents higher; top $18.00 unchanged. Hogs: Active and fully steady; top $14.85 ceiling.
